HICKEL CALLED UNFIT FOR JOB

...Republicans Defend Him As 'Consumer Oriented'

Washington (AP) — Republican senators defended secretary of the interior-designate Walter J. Hickel as "consumer oriented" Wednesday while critics contended he is unfit for the job.

But it appeared virtually certain the Alaskan governor will be confirmed by a substantial margin when his nomination is voted on Thursday, a day after the 11 other members of President Nixon's Cabinet were sworn into office.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield obtained unanimous consent for a vote on Hickel Thursday.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, joining the ranks of those committed against Hickel, said he hopes in doing so to impress on the Nixon administration "the widespread concern on conservation policy which exists throughout the country and the deep concern on national fuels policy which exists in New England and Maine."

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., went further, calling Hickel unfit and saying: "We need a true conservationist as secretary of the interior. Gov. Hickel is not that man."

Action on Hickel will be followed by consideration of another disputed Nixon nomination, that of California industrialist David R. Packard to be deputy secretary of defense.

Before a time was reached for the vote on Hickel, Mansfield had tried and failed to get agreement for a four-hour limit so action could be taken Wednesday. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., objected but conceded "I expect him to be confirmed — without my support."

Chief defenders of Hickel were Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, senior Republican on the Interior Committee, and Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska, appointed by Hickel in December to a Senate vacancy.

Besides Proxmire, critics included Sens. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., Muskie, and Lee Metcalf, D-Mont.

Judge of Own Suit

Pastore attacked Hickel because of Alaska's suit to block the proposed oil refinery and free trade zone at Machiasport, Maine, saying, "He is going to be the judge of the very same case in which he is a party."

Pastore said Hickel "is industry-minded, he is not consumer-minded."

Allott replied that proof of what he called Hickel's pro-consumer orientation was his role in forming a company to bring natural gas to Anchorage.

But Metcalf charged that consumers in Anchorage pay the highest utility rates in the country. The only comparable prices are in New England, he said.

Stevens, however, said formation of the Anchorage Natural Gas Co. reduced heating costs by one-third over what they had been when residents had to use oil.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Interior Committee which approved Hickel Monday by a vote of 14 to 3, opened the debate by saying: "A majority of the committee found no proper grounds on which to negate the President's choice."

Super-Cereal Coming Soon

Super-cereal?

That's the next step, according to the director of a Philippine Rice Research Institute. Dr. Robert F. Chandler told an international symposium of scientists in Lincoln Wednesday that bigger and better cereal grains are on the way.

Man now has at hand the tools and knowledge to biologically build super-cereals as food for an ever hungrier world, he said.

Scientists from 14 nations are attending the symposium at the University of Nebraska.

The first such symposium ever, the meetings on the "physiological aspects of crop yield" are being sponsored by the university, the American Society of Agronomy and the Crop Science Society of America.

Chandler centered his Wednesday afternoon presentations on a new strain of rice currently being experimented upon at his own research institute in the Philippines.

The strain, he noted, is more productive and hardier than previous rice plants and may lead to even better strains.

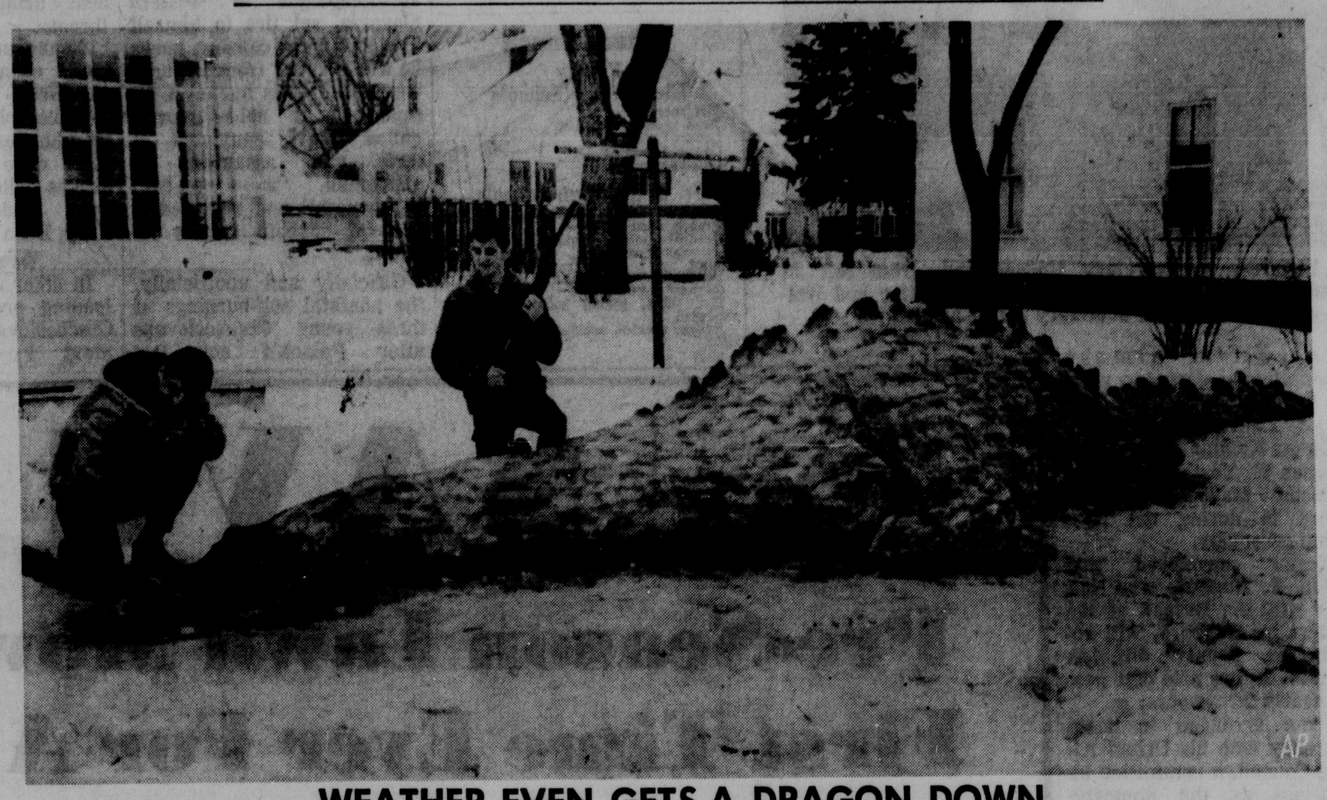

"The principles elucidated are applicable to many crops and particularly to the small grains, such as wheat, oats, barley and rye," he said.

Earlier Wednesday, a well-known agricultural economist said that plans to desalt sea water will not be economically feasible for another 20 years.

Dr. Marion Clawson of Washington, D.C., director of the land use and management program of Resources for the Future, Inc., used the desalting proposal as an example of how systems analysis can be used to determine economic uses for natural resources.

"At its best, the concept of a system provides a means of describing many interrelated factors, and of putting each into some sort of perspective," he said.

"Man has established fields of knowledge or profession such as chemistry, agronomy, genetics and the like. But nature knows no such categories."

Bucher Is Subject To Court-Martial

New York Times Service

Coronado, Calif. — A naval court of inquiry told Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher Wednesday that he was suspected of violating Navy regulations and was subject to court-martial for surrendering the Pueblo in January, 1968.

The announcement by Capt. William R. Newsome, counsel for the court of five admirals, stunned the packed 110 seat amphitheater. Bucher's lips quivered and his eyes filled with tears. A recess was promptly called.

Newsome made the statement following a morning and afternoon of testimony by Bucher on the details surrounding the capture of the intelligence ship by North Korea. As Bucher began discussing the actual boarding of the Pueblo by North Korean soldiers, Newsome stopped the proceedings, and called a 15-minute recess.

Article 0730

He then returned to the amphitheater and read:

"Cmdr. Bucher, it is my duty to apprise you of the fact that the facts revealed in this court of inquiry render you to be a suspect of a violation of Navy regulations, Article 0730."

This Navy regulations reads: "The commanding officer shall not permit his command to be searched by any person representing a foreign state nor permit any of the personnel under his command to be removed from the command by such person, so long as he has the power to resist."

Seconds after Newsome read his statement, Bucher's attorney arose and turned to the Pueblo skipper.

Puts Question

"At the time the North Koreans first set foot on the ship did you any longer have the power to resist," Harvey asked.

"No, I did not," Bucher replied softly.

Earlier Bucher told the court of inquiry that he had decided to surrender the Pueblo only after most of the secret documents and material had been destroyed.

"I decided, depending how satisfactorily we destroyed the material, I would surrender the ship," Bucher said.

Feared 'Slaughter'

"I felt any resistance on our part would have ended in complete slaughter of the crew," he went on. "There was no point in attempting to show further resistance at this time."

Standing beside a diagram of the Pueblo, Bucher told in detail of the crew's feverish struggle to incinerate secret documents, chop and hammer coding equipment and weighted bags of the ship's papers.

He conceded, however, that some of the intelligence data was lost to the North Koreans.

Tense, Tired

On the third day of Bucher's testimony, the 41-year-old Navy officer appeared tense and tired. He continually gulped glasses of water. He stood by the diagram of his lost ship, speaking slowly and breathing heavily.

He rarely glanced at the five admirals on the court of inquiry who sat to his right, three feet away at a raised green felt-covered table.

The admirals are decorated Navy heroes, four of them honored for actions during the Korean War in the same waters off North Korea where the Pueblo was captured.

Bitter Cold Air Follows Storm

. . . LINCOLN POLICE RECORD 25 ACCIDENTS IN ONE HOUR

Bitter cold Arctic air followed a storm front into the Lincoln area Wednesday, bringing plunging temperatures and causing icy streets and poor driving conditions.

Lincoln police logged 63 accidents in a 13-hour period — 25 mishaps in one hour — on the city's icy streets. The State Patrol said highways in the area were ice-covered.

By early Thursday morning the temperature in Lincoln had dropped from the day's high of 33 to 7 and the wind chill index plunged to 36 degrees below zero.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in Lincoln reported blowing and drifting snow in the area Wednesday evening and 20 to 30 mile-an-hour winds.

The Weather Bureau said the biggest drop in the Lincoln temperature occurred between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. when the mercury fell from 33 degrees to 18.

Streets in the area became icy when drizzle and fog turned to light freezing drizzle and rain and eventually to snow.

The Weather Bureau said light freezing rain continued to fall with snow in Lincoln until the temperature reached 12 degrees about 8 p.m. A bureau spokesman described the occurrence as "very unusual."

The bureau reported a snow depth of one inch early Thursday with new snowfall totaling about one-half inch.

Motorists Affected

Motorists in Lincoln seemed unprepared for the sudden change in weather and the resulting street conditions.

Minor injuries were reported

Arson Seen In Big Fire At Berkeley

Berkeley, Calif. (UPI)—University of California police said late Wednesday they suspected arson in a major three-alarm fire which gutted Wheeler Hall, the main auditorium on the Berkeley campus.

Campus police said witnesses saw "several persons running from the building before the fire." No injuries have been reported.

The fire was being fought by campus and Berkeley city fire units. A witness said the huge building appeared to be gutted by flames. Firemen declined to estimate the damage to the building.

Earlier Wednesday, student pickets manned the six entrances to the campus and paraded in front of various classroom buildings.

Education Unit Defers Action On Omaha School District Bill

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Education Committee Wednesday took no action on a controversial bill that would require the Omaha Board of Education to be elected by districts.

LB1, co-sponsored by seven of Omaha's 12 legislators, would provide the 12-member board be elected on the basis of districts of equal population, beginning with the 1970 election.

After nearly three hours of public hearing on the measure, Committee Chairman Lester Harsh said committee action would be taken in executive session next week, probably on Monday.

Aid Deprived

Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha, the bill's chief introduer, said the board's election by districts "would give deprived areas a voice in Omaha's educational system."

He said a majority (seven members) of the present board now reside in two of Omaha's legislative districts.

"It's not the old system of wards," Mahoney said, "but a plan to elect school board members by legislative districts — or areas based on population."

Opposition to the legislation came from the Omaha Board of Education, Omaha Chamber of Commerce, Omaha Parent Teacher Associations Council and School Supt. Owen Knutzen.

Strife Seen

Charles Peters, immediate past president of the Omaha school board said district elections "would pit neighborhood against neighborhood."

He said Omaha abandoned the ward system for school board election in 1917.

Supt. Knutzen contended the present board is geographically distributed, and denied charges that some Omaha areas have been favored with new construction and educational programs and other areas deprived.

Mrs. Leslie Cleveland, Omaha PTA Council president, said the Mahoney bill "would plunge Omaha education into politics."

Denied Allegations

Other PTA spokesmen denied allegations of the bill's supporters that only board candidates endorsed by the PTA council and teacher groups can be elected.

"Only four of the six candidates endorsed by the PTA in last November's election were seated on the board," the committee was advised.

Ernie Chambers, an Omaha black militant, charged the Omaha board "is unresponsive to the problems and new ferment in the schools."

No Other Choice

"If election by wards or districts cannot solve this problem," he said, "then there will be no choice but to use other methods any parent would use to protect the moral, psychological and educational rearing of his children."

Also heard by the committee was LB94 that would require two-way radios in school buses.

There was no direct opposition to the bill except it be limited to buses operating outside of cities and towns. The committee was also asked to consider the financial impact on smaller districts.

Drizzle And Snow Make Roads Slick

Light drizzle or snow combined with plunging temperatures across the state Wednesday leaving Nebraska highways "dangerously slick," State Department of Roads officials reported.

The driving lane of Interstate 80, officials said, was still fairly dry, but other roads in the state were icing over and becoming extremely dangerous.

Route 12 east of Crofton was reported to be closed and officials said that drifting had begun in the Valentine, Ainsworth and Bloomfield areas. Blowing snow was reported in the northeastern part of the state.

The State Patrol said Route 59 from Creighton to the Highway 98 junction was almost closed from the blowing snow and that the road from that junction to the Highway 81 junction was open only to one-way travel in places.

Light to moderate drizzle and snow fell in all parts of the state and as it moved eastward across the state, temperatures dropped sharply because of a cold air mass traveling with the front.

During the storm, the KVRN radio station's FM tower south of Lexington collapsed for the third time in six years, a police official there said.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Omaha said at noon that some power and communication lines were reported down north of North Platte due to wet snow and moderately strong winds. Lines from southwestern portions of the state into North Platte were covered with considerable frost and icy snow, the bureau said.

The Missouri River continued slightly above bankful at Rulo due to ice action, and officials indicated there would be little change during the next three days.

Heaviest snowfalls were reported at Norfolk with seven inches, Mullen three inches and North Platte three inches.

Lincoln air service was sharply reduced Wednesday. Frontier Airlines reported only one flight out of Lincoln during the day because of weather conditions here and in Omaha.

United Air Lines had limited service during the day, but reported normal flight schedules Wednesday evening.

B'nai B'rith Hits Anti-Semitism

New York — The Ant-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith issued a report saying that "raw, undisguised anti-Semitism is at a crisis level in New York City schools" and that there is "danger that school children have been infected by the anti-Semitic preachings of Negro extremists."

GOP War On Inflation Pledged

Federal Budget Pruning Begun

Washington (AP) — Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy conferred with President Nixon Wednesday, then promised that the new administration will move decisively, to offset inflation, but without abrupt or blunt action that could "bring unnecessary unemployment."

In a statement endorsed by Nixon, Kennedy said:

"We have inherited inflationary pressures that are seriously distorting the economy and financial markets. That inflation must, and will, be contained."

Budget Director Robert P. Mayo reported earlier that he is at work on an effort to cut the federal budget sent to Congress by former President Johnson. He left open the possibility that budget reductions might make possible the easing or elimination of the 10% income surtax.

But he said that as matters now stand, the surtax must continue.

LBJ Budget Tight

Kennedy said he personally sees little likelihood of substantial budget reductions. He said he thinks the spending blueprint Johnson prepared is "a very tight budget." It projects a $3.4 billion surplus.

"I think we'll have to work very hard to hold that surplus," the Treasury secretary said. "My own view is that it's going to be very difficult to reduce expenditures substantially."

Nixon watched as 11 members of what he called "a working Cabinet" were sworn into office, then met for three hours with the top men of his administration.

Walter J. Hickel, whom Nixon chose to be secretary of the interior, was the missing man as Chief Justice Earl Warren administered the oath of office to Cabinet members at a nationally televised and broadcast ceremony in the White House.

Miscues

There were a couple of miscues during the early morning affair. Nixon, who neglected to mention the name of Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans when he announced his Cabinet selections last month, sought to make amends.

"I want to be sure that everybody on television knows that I remembered it on this occasion," he said. Then he introduced Stans: "The secretary of commerce."

He finally got the name in after the oath was administered. "I congratulate you, Mr. Stans."

As John A. Volpe was sworn in as secretary of transportation, Nixon confessed, "I almost automatically started to raise my hand, too . . ."

Yost, Mayo, Too

United Nations Ambassador Charles W. Yost and Budget Director Mayo also were sworn in during the East Room ceremony.

Ziegler announced that Philip S. Hughes, who has been with the Bureau of the Budget for 20 years, will remain as deputy director. Hughes, 51, has held that post for nearly three years.

Nixon arranged to meet Thursday with his Urban Affairs Council, a committee he envisions as the domestic equivalent of the National Security Council. Its members will include Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, Labor Secretary George P. Shultz, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney, Volpe, Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin and Daniel P. Moynihan, assistant to the President.

Czechoslovak Hunger Strikes Spread

Prague (AP) — Hunger strikes spread to several Czechoslovak cities Wednesday in support of the liberal ideals of Jan Palach. Two more Czechoslovaks were reported to have set themselves afire, but official reports cast doubt on their motives.

Frantisek Bogyi, 24, in jail at Leopoldov in western Slovakia, set fire to himself Tuesday night causing burns he will recover from in three weeks, the news agency CTK reported. It said experts called Bogyi, convicted of theft and assaulting a policeman, "a typical psychopath" and reported it was his seventh suicide attempt.

Officially and unofficially, the nonfatal self-burnings of three young Czechoslovaks after Palach's act last Thursday held little power to stir the public.

Prague students who at first had hailed Josef Hlavaty's attempted self-immolation at Pilzen Monday night said later they were convinced he was not protesting the Russian grip on his country. Investigators' reports said Hlavaty, 25, still in critical condition, was a heavy drinker given to suicide threats.

Some students said Hlavaty was cheapening Palach's sacrifice.

While police tried to break up a hunger strike in Prague, there were reports of other strikes called by students in Cske Budejovice, Karlovy Vary, Brno and Bratislava.

Two Returned

In other developments, two leading progressives in the Czechoslovak reform movement returned home from abroad. Ota Sik and Eduard Goldsteucker had remained out of the country after the Soviet invasion last August.

It was not known what prompted them to return at this time. Sik, a deputy premier, had been living in Switzerland. Goldstuecker, head of the Czech writers' union, had been teaching at Sussex University in England.

Police moved in early Wednesday morning and forced a group of Prague strikers to take down three tents because they didn't have a permit. Many of the strikers left, but some remained in the enclosure in front of the fountain where Palach burned himself last Thursday.

Police reinforcements at Wenceslas Square kept people from gathering in front of the strikers.

Second Largest Dump Captured

Saigon (AP) — U.S. air cavalrymen in a lightning swoop by helicopters have found an undefended enemy base north of Saigon and seized the second largest munitions dump captured in the war, the U.S. Command reported Wednesday.

The cavalrymen found 30 tons of rockets, mortars, recoilless rifle shells and explosives still in crates in 30 bunkers 60 miles northwest of Saigon Tuesday.

Noting the absence of guards at the base, a U.S. spokesman said either the enemy thought the bunker complex was safe from discovery or the guards fled when they saw they were outnumbered. The base is only seven miles from the Cambodian border.

The cache was found 26 miles from where South Vietnamese troops uncovered the war's biggest cache, 40 tons of weapons and supplies last September.

The stockpile found Tuesday included Red Chinese 107mm rockets, the first found so far that were not copies of Soviet designs.

The Americans also found the bodies of six North Vietnamese soldiers in one bunker. They apparently were killed by a U.S. air strike.

U.S. officers believe that like other large arms caches taken in the 3rd Corps Tactical Zone, the stockpile was destined for use in an enemy offensive against Saigon.

Fire Drawn

In the far north, U.S. infantrymen backed by tanks drew renewed fire Wednesday as they battled an entrenched enemy force 65 miles south of the military base of Da Nang.

Reports from the field said U.S. officers believed that possibly a company of 100 or more enemy troops were holed up in bunkers and tunnels in a village there.

The casualty toll was 17 enemy dead with an unconfirmed five more killed by U.S. air strikes. Two U.S. soldiers have been killed and 19 wounded since the fight flared Monday.

Musician, 19, Joining Doane's Czech Refugees

Lincoln Star Special

Crete — Doane College's contingent of Czech refugees has increased to five. The latest arrival is Miss Sidonia Kantner, 19, of Bratislava, Czechoslovakia.

Miss Kantner, as the previous four, escaped from Czechoslovakia when the Soviet Union occupied the homeland last August.

She will be living with the Joseph Brabec Jr., family in Crete. Miss Kantner studied six semesters in a conservatory of music in Czechoslovakia. She is described as "an accomplished pianist and cellist."

Following her flight from Czechoslovakia, Miss Kantner met Dr. and Mrs. Werner Leinfellner in Vienna, Austria. Dr. Leinfellner teaches at the University of Nebraska. Mrs. Leinfellner, also a Ph.D., teaches foreign language at Doane.

The Leinfellners arranged with Steve Marsh, 22, son of Nebraska Secretary of State Frank Marsh, to sponsor Miss Kantner's arrival.

Stayed In Lincoln

For several weeks Miss Kantner has lived with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Svoboda of Lincoln who arranged temporary employment for her and arranged to have her enter the Doane refugee program.

Miss Kantner has begun classes in music theory and related subjects at Doane.

Doane director of public relations Charles R. Hein said, "The response to this program from Czech-Americans and many others continues to be splendid."

Hein said the college has "received offers of assistance for the refugees and inquiries into the Institute of Czechslovakian Studies on which planning is proceeding."

Hein said persons who wish to support the refugee program in a financial way are asked to send their contributions to the director of public relations at Doane College. Each contribution will be acknowledged, he said.

"Some contributions already have been received for the support of these students and we would like to make this opportunity available to all interested persons," he said. Volunteer gifts are being placed in a special fund for use in the refugee program.

Bitter Cold Hits Lincoln After Storm

in some accidents, police said, but very few required medical attention. No one was admitted to a hospital for injuries suffered in any of the accidents, police said.

Lincoln police Lt. Dean Leitner said the ice-slickened streets actually helped keep the number of serious accidents down.

Driving Slower

"People were driving much slower than usual," he said, "and therefore few injuries resulted from the accidents."

Motorists were warned by police for driving with their windows fogged or iced-up, a police spokesman said.

"This is a major contribution to accidents," he said. "People don't take the time to clean their windshields before driving and, consequently, reduce their vision."

Police said a new record was set between 4 p.m. and 10 p.m. when a total of 50 accidents were reported.

This broke the old record set four years ago by more than seven, police said.

Slippery Underfoot

Police also said many pedestrians were slipping on the treacherous sidewalks and crosswalks Wednesday, but no serious injuries were reported.

Detectives said very few crimes were reported since the weather change.

"It's just too cold to do anything," one detective remarked.

That Is Really A Lot Of Snow

Helena, Mont. (AP) — When residents of Helena spoke of a heavy snowfall Wednesday, they had good reason.

The Weather Bureau estimated 642,000 tons of snow covered the community of 22,000 after a 22-inch snowfall in two days. That's better than 29 tons per resident.

Two Brothers Arraigned In Co-Op Holdup

David City (AP) — Bond was set at $15,000 each Wednesday for two brothers from Columbus charged in the holdup of the Bellwood Co-Operative Credit Association Tuesday.

Marshal Mikkelsen, 25, and Don Mikkelsen, 28, were arraigned before County Judge J. C. Hranac, who set bond and set 1 p.m. Jan. 31 for preliminary hearing.

Marshal Mikkelsen was charged in an amended complaint with bank robbery and assault and Don Mikkelsen with aiding and abetting bank robbery and assault.

The brothers indicated they do not have funds for counsel and are expected to ask District Court to appoint attorneys. The two remained in the Butler County jail.

Money Not Found

The pair was arrested Tuesday afternoon about 13 miles northwest of Bellwood shortly after a gunman took between $800 and $900 from the cooperative.

Galbraith, a corn and livestock farmer, will be in charge of state and county operations, it was said.

The $28,000-a-year post is now held by Democrat Ray Fitzgerald, a former South Dakotan.

Formal announcement of Galbraith's appointment was pending, but it was learned that he remained in Washington after the inauguration and went apartment hunting.

Staley Says Low Prices Is No. 1 Farm Problem

Columbus (AP) — Oren Lee Staley of Rea, Mo., president of the National Farmers Organization, told a weather-diminished crowd Wednesday that low prices is the No. 1 problem facing agriculture today.

He warned farmers they must organize to meet the challenge of today's economy. He noted that all other groups are organized and those not organized are finding themselves in an increasingly weaker position.

"The farmer must include all commodities in efforts for higher prices," Staley said, "and he must be willing to use holding action when needed to show his strength."

Staley declared the farmer can't compete in the organized economy as an individual against the economic strength of those who buy his products.

The farm leader spoke at the Northeast - Central Nebraska Farm Exposition. Icy roads and weather cut attendance at the two-day meeting.

2 Nebraskans Among Talent Hunt Winners

By the Associated Press

Two Nebraskans were included in the 300-name honors list in the 28th annual Westinghouse Science Talent Search announced by Science Service of Washington, D.C.

From this list of 300 a group of 40 will be given expense paid trips to Washington to compete for 10 scholarships ranging in value from a $250 cash award to a $10,000 four-year college scholarship.

The two Nebraskans picked for the 300-name honors list are Joel Ivan Bohling of Auburn and David Jeffrey Kaplan of Omaha, a Central High School senior.

Bohling was picked for his study on Estimating Star Distances by Spectronanlysis and Kaplan for Functions Defined by Unusual Limits.

Drive Started To Aid Family Hit By Flames

Fairbury (AP) — A campaign has been started for clothing and other necessary articles for a family of eight burned out in a fire Tuesday night.

Radio station KGMT of Fairbury issued the plea of assistance Wednesday for Mr. and Mrs. Max Tracy and their six children. Their home between Swanton and Western was damaged severely by fire of undetermined origin.

U.S. Sun Probe Soars Into Orbit

Cape Kennedy (UPI) — An American "Sunshine" satellite soared into a good orbit Wednesday to learn more about earth's nearest star and watch for radiation hazards to moon pilots.

The $12 million spacecraft, an orbiting solar observatory named OSO 5, executed its early orbital maeuver wit early orbital maneuvers with precision and is scheduled to begin watching the sun Thursday.

It was the first of 26 space agency launchings on the 1969 schedule, and the satellite used as Delta rocket with a second stage that was built six years ago.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

In Lincoln on Saturday will be some 250 people associated with what, in 1968, was the fifth fastest growing industry in the nation. It will be a convention they are attending and that generally isn't much of a topic for editorial comment but this one may be a little different.

The convention will bring together members of the Nebraska Mobile Homes and Recreation Vehicle Association and the Great Plains Housing Institute, the latter a five-state organization of the mobile homes industry.

Now, why would this interest us? Mobile homes are simply trailers and they have been around for a long time, you might say. And all you may know about this is that you hear arguments now and then about taxing them.

At the Saturday noon luncheon, Dan Katzman, an Omaha mobile homes manufacturer, will speak on "The Future of the Mobile Housing Industry." In that title you have one key to the importance of the situation.

Notice the title includes the word "housing" rather than "home." And that is what interests us. We would imagine that Mr. Katzman would have quite a speech to deliver because he is in an industry that might well be on the come like nothing has been for a long time.

Mobile homes, of course, live under a misnomer. More and more, the mobility is being eliminated from the business. They are movable in most cases but they don't have to be and often are no more so than any other home.

In fact, there are mobile home parks which can point to a lower turnover of residents than the average standard residential neighborhoods. Obviously, the mobile home is not just another trailer.

Some of the bigger mobile homes of today are as expansive as many permanent homes. More important, the rising costs of construction are making the mobile home a more and more attractive investment on the part of the general public.

There is no question that things are happening today in the home-building industry that promise substantial change for the future. There is a dedication today, for instance, to the concept of home-ownership that never existed before.

More accurately, we might speak of housing, because it is living conditions in which we find the interest, be it in owned or rented property. Decent housing for all is more today than the nice-sounding theory it has been in the past.

At government levels at least there is a conviction that decent housing is as much a right and certainly as essential to the individual as air and water. This nation has come to the point where it is going to make sure everyone has at least the opportunity to attain decent housing.

President Johnson called for far more housing starts in the coming years than has been the pattern in the past.

But all of this runs smack into the hard facts of economics. The answer to the rising costs of home-building is not going to be lower wages or lower material costs.

Rather, the answer is going to be found in greater productivity and innovation. This is where mobile homes may come in. They are already taking on certain characteristics of permanency and already exercise a substantial economic advantage over conventional housing.

It is possible to provide in a mobile home, for instance, the same square footage of a conventional home but at half the price. We would not anticipate that conventional housing will, within our lifetime, become a forgotten thing, but a large chunk of the market is likely to be lost to more advanced construction techniques such as one sees in the mobile home industry.

Post-Inaugural Parade

Teens Dance To Times

No age group escapes the influence of times in which it lives and teens are no exception. As noted at the last meeting of the Auditorium Advisory Board, the Keen Time Dances have come upon some difficult times.

Attendance at the dances is down, a fact noted by the board and confirmed by city recreation department officials. There may be a number of reasons but the most significant one has to do with discipline. Dance attendance is off because some of the affairs have had too much disorder.

While a very few young people may thrive on fights and generally rowdy behavior, the vast majority have no liking for it. As a result, an activity is shunned by many youngsters if it threatens to involve them in any trouble.

Thus, the decline in Keen Time attendance speaks well of the teenagers, who want orderly functions to attend. In time, this attitude will help eliminate unfavorable activity at the dances. Too, adult supervision of the dances is being strengthened by the city and that will help matters.

Keen Time has been a constructive activity for too long to have it fall victim now to the carelessness and disregard of a few dissidents. It will make a comeback and, in the process, be an even better and more rounded organization for the young people of the city. That is the challenge the teenagers and their sponsors now face and we are confident it will be met with success.

Lincoln's Aviation Future

Improvements to Lincoln Municipal Airport costing an estimated $10 million to meet projected minimum needs by 1980 have been recommended to the Lincoln Airport Authority and the authority will now begin to seek the views of all segments of the community interested in Lincoln's aviation future, including the public, at an open hearing.

The authority board's job will be to determine if the consultant's projections are real and accurate enough and if they are, to decide whether Lincoln should keep pace with the growth.

As proposed by the Chicago consultant, the authority, over a 10-year period, would provide approximately $7 million through revenue bond issues and reserves and the remainder would be supplied by the state and federal governments. No additional tax money would be involved. This money would finance a new terminal building, apron, taxiways, parking and improvements to the existing runway system.

The fact is that now the airline passengers, the air carriers and the airport concessionaires are getting mad at Lincoln because of the congestion and inconvenience of the existing facilities. The airlines and sideline businesses, of course, should be more than happy to foot the increased rentals in a new terminal building.

Despite Lincoln's rather tenuous position at the present time in our attempt to secure expanded air service, the future of the airline industry points to this city's playing a healthy part. Certainly the widespread diversion of flights away from the clogged major airports that is bound to come will benefit Lincoln. More landings mean more revenue for the authority. And as the city is opened up to the new air markets, more industry will be attracted, hopefully giving the authority additional air industrial park revenue. Thus we feel the investment in new facilities is worth the money, and the financial obligation can be met.

We agree with Airport Authority Executive Director Rolland Harr's statement: "We've got to keep pace or we'll be just like the towns that lost the railroad."

Feeding The Birds

Linwood, Neb.

Since we're having a severe winter, I wish to share some bird-feeding ideas with others. These hints are inexpensive, especially devised for bird-lovers who find the cost of manufactured feeders and packaged feeds beyond their means.

Chickadees, nuthatches, titmice and woodpeckers will take readily to suet fastened to an upright tree limb or post, securely tied with heavy cord or knitted twine. Do not fasten on flat surfaces, as the greedy jays and starlings will eat it in one day. Also avoid using metal containers or fasteners, as in cold weather the tongue or eye of a bird may stick to frosted metal. Suet cakes may be made by adding two tablespoons of chunk style peanut butter to one cup of melted suet (save all excess fats from meats). Two tablespoons of mixed wild bird seed may be added or it may be omitted. Place where easily accessible to birds. It may take a week or more before birds will sample cakes. Do not use salted fats.

This suet mixture also works well with a coconut. Cut a hole in one end, small enough so the large greedy birds cannot gobble the supply. Fill cavity and suspend from limb with heavy wire which will not sway in the wind. Wrap a net or heavy cord around coconut so small birds can cling to it. They will eat coconut along with the filling.

Economical feeders: You can make your own with discarded scrap lumber, obtainable at some lumber yards, planing mills, etc. and construction sites (be sure to obtain permission). I use a discarded divided drawer from an old buffet 18"x18"-x2". Since most birds seek shelter during a storm, an open feeder can be brought in and put back at the feeding area after the snow or rain has ceased. I place feed in each compartment, sunflower, squash or pumpkin seeds, coarsely ground and cracked corn and crumbled cornbread. Milo can be used, too. Harvested grains such as shelled corn, wheat and milo can be obtained in bulk at feed mills and corn can be cracked or ground at these mills. If space permits, raise sunflowers and milo in a corner of your yard. Use seeds in feeder or fasten sunflower heads onto trees and loosely staple milo heads on top of flat surfaces. I use old discarded house plant pedestals. Or nail board on top of a post and fasten milo loosely, turning heads as seeds are consumed.

Feeds placed in open feeders will attract all birds, especially those which ordinarily are scratchers. Most bird books state that juncos do not frequent feeders. However, I've had them at the open feeders after every storm. One should protect feeders from cats.

P.S. I forgot to add that I place the divided feeder on top of benches and old barrels.

Time For Action

Fairbury, Neb.

The lady's letter regarding individual effort about the Beatrice State Home was so right in many ways. Yes, many things could be done, but will never be done unless the legislators will earmark money appropriated for the things that are so badly needed.

First on the list should be ward aids. As in the past, this has come last. We hear how understaffed the home is on the wards, but no one seems to care to do anything about it and talk doesn't help the patients lying in beds waiting for someone to feed them, and tend their every need. Sometimes there are from 50 to 100 patients on a ward and one or two ward aids.

The laundry and kitchen are also very much understaffed. Good food is necessary. As it is, the food wasted is higher in the long-run. The laundry is not half large enough. People have written to the senators and others before, but it doesn't do any good.

The home seems to be quite well staffed in departments where there are no patients underfoot, but why will they not correct these other wrongs? It should be done, not next year or the year after, but now.

Let's give these patients the kind of care they should have and which is long overdue. A new building won't help if there is no one to care for the patients. Wages are not the only drawback at the home. The working conditions are getting worse.

January Rain

Lincoln, Neb.

Milady of the Veil
Is about in the night again—
A cheerless phantom, she.
Moving with heavy,
Leaden feet
Droning a tuneless,
Mournful beat;
A dirge of mirthless,
Chill defeat —
A melancholy strain.

Trailing her sombre robes
Through muck and mire —
In wild, unholy glee —
She slaps the face
Of him she meets,
And wraps her gray
And winding sheets
About the dimly,
Silent streets
In mist and drizzling rain.

"May I never live so long that I have to eat old newspapers," I said to The Farmer as I looked up from reading the paper. I could see that he was not drooling at the thought of my words.

"It says here," I emphasized in case doubt crossed his mind, "the meat factory of the future may have old newspapers going in and steaks coming out." Somehow steak made of newspapers has a hollow ring to it. Upon further thought, what will they use for the T in the T-bone steaks? Or will we be told to imagine the bone is in the steak? That does not seem any more far-fetched than eating newspapers and being told it is steak.

Bacteria normally found in the rumen of cattle naturally produce an enzyme that turns grass and woody fiber into protein. Since meat is protein, the hope of scientists is to produce this enzyme to digest newspaper pulp and turn it into protein whereby it can be pressed into steaks.

I will say, disposing of old newspapers is sometimes a problem but I never thought of eating them. That would also solve the problem of disposing of paper dresses.

I can see it all now — a big steak on the platter with bright blue and red flowers steaming in a delicate aroma.

Imagine the family conversation at the table. Little Bobby licks his chops and says, "Mommy this steak looks like the dress you were wearing."

"It is dear," she answers, patting him on the head. "Now eat my dress and pretend it is steak. You will grow nice and big like your daddy."

Seed catalogs come at just the right time of the year. There seems to be a lull after the holidays when the bleak winter days seem extra long and the sun does not shine. It is like a small ember suddenly bursting into a brilliant flame to open to the pages of flowers and see spring before your eyes.

I hope I never cease to look forward to another spring with its promise of new leaf buds swelling upon the boughs and small rootlets stirring beneath the soil before sending up delicate green spears.

I hope I never grow deaf to the rich warbling of song birds as they return from the southland and stake their nesting claims. Yet as I thumb through the seed catalogs, may I not get so eager for spring that I am blind to the quiet winter beauty that lies outside my window. In other words, the greatest joy in looking through the highly colored seed catalogs comes when I am shut in the warm confines of my home and merely daydream about the lovely garden I will have come spring.

When the large geometric snowflakes fall in a wild flurry, it complements my hearthbound spirit to let it also have a fling of fantasy via the seed catalogs.

Meat Trays Exemplify 'Marketing By Lobby'

NEW YORK — With all the turmoil and excitement going on everywhere all the time — wars, disasters, moon shots, plane hi-jackings — it hardly seems necessary to get in a lather about whether supermarket meat should be sold in a paper tray or a plastic one.

The battle of paperboard vs. plastic meat trays began in earnest when New York's Mayor John Lindsay signed into law a bill requiring all pre-packaged meat sold at retail in the city be in plastic trays after Aug. 1. This started an industry row between the manufacturers of the outlawed paper trays and the makers of the favored plastic ones.

The argument that the customer should be able to see both sides of the meat he's purchasing appeared reasonable enough. It would seem to provide insurance against unscrupulous butchers. However since the stakes are estimated at $80 million or more, the motive of the combatants is clear. The rival industries make an estimated 10 billion trays a year, more than half of pulp paper, three per cent of clear plastic and the rest of polystyrene foam and chipboard. Now all must be made of plastic if they are to carry New York City's meat from market to home.

This is now more than a local issue. Identical legislation is being proposed to other city and state governments all across the country, making it a matter of national concern.

What is at issue is the right of manufacturers of all types of packaging to complete openly and freely. There are dangers in a law which enforces the use of a single product for a particular industry.

It goes without saying that the consumer must be protected from abuses in the market place. However, legislators can be deluded into believing they are supporting bills for "consumer protection" which are unfair to everyone.

This seems to be what has happened in the case of the plastic tray. There has been a boom in pre-packaged meats in supermarkets, and the manufacturing of trays to hold the meat has become a multi-million dollar business. Up to now, the field had been dominated by molded paper trays which have been simple, safe and satisfactory. Then the plastics industry, eyeing this burgeoning market, developed a tray it promoted as being "transparent."

New York City okayed the nude look in mat trays without sufficient study of all the pros and cons.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Eisenhower Years Set No Pattern For Nixon; Customary Period Of Grace Will Not Be Long

WASHINGTON — What is really remarkable is that it happened. In 1963 after his defeat for the governorship of California, no one except perhaps his nearest and dearest would have bet a plugged nickel that Richard Nixon would someday be president of the United States. He had himself played an angry renunciation scene.

In his extraordinary achievement — one of the miraculous political resurrections of all time — is the hope for the future.

The temptation is to say that if he could do that, he can do anything. Yet through those six years, he was working within the frame of his own kind — those same quiet Americans to whom he addressed his appeal in the campaign last fall. It was the middle of the road defined a variety of ways — by his choice of a vice president, his cautious utterances, his refusal to be drawn into controversy and debate.

Now he must break out of that frame. If one thing is clear, this is the last chance for middle America; for government by the quiet Americans, the kind of white Anglo-Saxon government that Nixon has put together. The pulls from the far right and the far left have abated somewhat in this pause of transition.

There will be for the new President a period of grace. But it is bound to be of short duration, since beneath the surface the deeply divisive forces are as strong as ever.

If the mood of the country can be guessed at, leaving out the fringe of extremists, it is one of belief and hope. Give him his chance. The drama of the change-over, a change of men, a change of parties, is charged with this desire to believe no matter how uninspired that drama seemed under a cold, lowering sky.

Only once before in the past 36 years have the Republicans held the highest office in the land. Those were the eight Eisenhower years. That Republican interregnum provides little either as model or precedent for the new administration. In 1953 it may have seemed possible, desirable even, to subside into the calm, unreflective ways of an earlier Republicanism.

The Eisenhower years were quiescent years. The general, a hero enshrined in the national pantheon beyond fear or favor, brought an end to the Korean War. His second most important act was to name Earl Warren as Chief Justice of the United States, although there is reason to believe he had no realization of what a far-reaching influence Warren would exert on the high court. Otherwise, for the most part — John Foster Dulles' extravagant adventures in putting paper pacts together, his extravagant rhetoric, to one side — events determined the shape of those years.

The illusion of a calm return to the happier ways of the past is precisely the luxury Nixon cannot afford. Both at home and abroad he is presented with a series of challenges that will not be ignored. In the light of these insistent demands, delay is in itself a form of decision, and perhaps a fateful form.

Ever since Nixon's election by so narrow a popular majority, Democrats in the liberal wing of the party have been smugly counting four years of the Nixon administration. Then Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will return in triumph. But they should realize that they are confronted with a Republican President who for the first time in 36 years is a master politician. He won the highest marks in that department and he can do it again as he reshapes the Grand Old Party in his own smooth, successful image.

Survey: Johnson Often Supported By Majority

By LOUIS HARRIS

In the heat of the passions which have surrounded Lyndon Johnson's standing with his countrymen, it is often forgotten that for most of his time in the White House he had the support of a majority of the public. In an odd way, Johnson found himself the victim of the previous high standards of both his own popularity ratings and the seeming ease with which he could accomplish certain measurable progress.

Although he entered the White House under tragic conditions, almost nine out of every 10 Americans expected him to do a good and competent job. Undoubtedly, part of this was wishful thinking, for back in the dark days of November 1963, few people had any but prayerful hopes for the new President. But in 1964, as he moved rapidly to convert much of the Kennedy domestic program into law, he achieved a consensus few other chief executives have been able to obtain.

He was credited in rapid order for getting Congress to pass major civil rights, education and medicare bills. Most of all, he seemed to know how to get things done, particularly in his handling of the apparatus of government.

Then when he ran into heavy seas and into problems that did not seem capable of quick solution, he was fair game for widespread public criticism for his "wheeler dealer" style. No two issues illustrated this difficulty for Lyndon Johnson more than the war in Vietnam and the racial disorders at home.

The irony of both situations is that only once in the five years of the Johnson administration did anything less than a majority support the commitment of the U.S. to remain in Vietnam. Only in the case of open-housing legislation was there more opposition than support for major civil rights legislation, and in that case the division was close.

On the substance of Vietnam and advances for the black community, the American people could have been rallied to support. The public could have been brought to a position sympathetic with the plight of the President as he presided over the rioting and racial unrest in 1967.

LOUIS HARRIS

Often Forgotten

But in both Vietnam and on the racial front, Johnson, himself, rather than the substance of the issue involved, became the target for most of the criticism. The key in both cases was his manner of "handling" these situations. As long as things might turn out well, the public was willing to go along with the Johnson style. But when crises evolved with no resolution in sight, then the people turned on the President they held responsible for not preparing them for the bad news.

The specific criticisms during these periods leveled at Johnson centered around his raising "false hopes" that the war was going better than it turned out to be, or that "he opened up rather than healed wounds," on the racial front.

What people seemed to be saying more than anything else was that Lyndon Johnson, by instinct and by temperament, always seemed to want to bring good news and real accomplishment in government, but never seemed willing to inspire the people to sacrifice in the face of adversity.

In short, Johnson did not involve the people in his and the nation's problems, so much as he performed a self-centered — and at times, incredible — solo, alone and apart from the public he was attempting to lead.

For all of his difficulties, nonetheless, Lyndon Johnson has left office with a majority of 53% who gave him good-to-excellent on his White House record. This was a far cry from that peak 83% rating in early 1964. But it was also well above the 38% nadir just before he disavowed any intention to run again. He wasn't believed to be performing miracles at the end, but neither did he leave office discredited.

In the perspective of history it is sometimes forgotten that the legendary John F. Kennedy just before his tragic death was no higher than Johnson's present standing in the polls.

This Week's Health

Here's a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association:

Carbon monoxide is a deadly, colorless, odorless, tasteless gas produced every time a carbon-containing material burns.

Since you can not see, smell, or taste it, the gas is hard to detect except by your symptoms — drowsiness, headache, tightness across the forehead, confusion, nausea and muscular weakness.

To prevent carbon monoxide poisoning in your home, have all heating systems checked annually for operating efficiency. Make sure that vents, pipes, flues, and chimneys are tight. Be sure that all heating devices designed for venting are properly vented to the outside.

Charcoal grills and hibachis used indoors are dangerous unless you provide additional fresh air. And, remember — your fireplace damper should always remain open until you are certain that the fire is out.

Grandmother's Ruse Gets Boy To Barber

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. — "You quoted a grandmother who was upset because her 16-year-old grandson wouldn't cut his shoulder-length hair. I had the same problem and you know how I handled it? I simply said, 'Johnny, your hair is so long it looks just like mine so I've arranged to get our picture taken together — maybe we'll look like sisters.' I actually made an appointment at the photographer, but he never showed up. Instead he went to the barber and got a crew cut the next day."

A. — Glad to know someone has found a trick for getting longhaired grandsons into a barber's chair. We'll pass the idea on to others who may be disturbed about the long tresses so popular among adolescent lads today.

Q. — "My wife, who's past 60, looked okay to me the past four decades. But recently she's fallen into the hands of a new hairdresser who's convinced her she's naked without false eyelashes, bluepainted eyelids, and a Cleopatra-type wig. She looks like an ancient streetwalker in this get-up but calls me a spoilsport when I criticize. What's to be done?"

A. — Give her some time to enjoy the new trappings. After awhile she'll doubtless return to her former appearance. Many women are susceptible to high-pressure suggestions for instant glamour. But most women are smart enough to know what enhances their appearance and what detracts. If she's really making a fool of herself she'll catch on soon enough.

Q. — "My parents retired and moved to Florida where they bought a house with a swimming pool. When we brought the children down for a surprise visit we found mother entertaining her bridge club with a swim party and everyone of these overweight matrons was wearing a bikini. It was a shocking sight, believe me, and I'd just like to know what's happened to the standards of the older generation?"

A. — Sometimes modern elders are less conservative than youngsters. We middle-agers hasten to conform to the standards of our home community for fear of being ostracized. But older people who move to new areas often feel a sense of emancipation. They are more inclined to try new tricks since they are no longer tied to the conventions and traditions of the old hometown. Take it in your stride. If your ma and her pals don't do anything worse than wear bikinis at the bridge table you don't have much to worry about.

If you would like a booklet, "The 50 Most Popular Retirement Hobbies," write to Robert Peterson, c/o Dispatch Letter Service, 25 W. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10036, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

City Cigarette Tax Proposal Among New Bills

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Wednesday received a wide variety of new bills, including proposals to authorize a city cigarette tax and to repeal the present prohibition against an agency shop labor agreement.

Another new bill would require the vaccination of all dogs for rabies effective Oct. 1.

Among a batch of new public power bills was a measure which would fine members of the board of public power districts $50 a day if their districts fail to comply with a state law requiring extension of voter representation over their entire service area.

Those directors, under LB466, chiefly sponsored by Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland, would also forfeit their compensation for expenses and be ineligible for re-election.

A 1967 law required all districts to amend their charters to cover their entire service areas by July 21, 1968.

Rabies Contol

The rabies control bill, LB454, was introduced by Sen. Fen. Hubbard Orme of Lincoln and would apply to all dogs when they reach the age of four months.

Sen. Lester Harsh of McCook sponsored LB434 authorizing cities and villages to levy a one-cent cigarette tax.

Sens. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, Bill Bloom of Omaha, William Skarda of Omaha and Eugene Mahoney of Omaha signed LB468, the agency shop measure.

Bottoms Up

Chicago (UPI) — If you are an average American you drank about 20 gallons of soft drinks last year. To put the "fizz" in all the soda pop consumed in this country, the Cardox division of Chemetron Corporation estimates, more than 200,000 tons of carbon dioxide were required.

State law now specifically prohibits anyone from being denied employment because of refusal to pay a fee either directly or indirectly to a labor organization, thus outlawing agency shop agreements in Nebraska.

Training School Gym

LB453, introduced by Sen. Leslie Robinson of Kearney and three co-sponsors, would appropriate $640,000 to construct a gymnasium at the Boys Training School at Kearney. The old gym was destroyed by fire.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha offered LB459, proposing a constitutional amendment directing the Legislature to redistrict Supreme Court judicial districts after each federal census.

Whereas the court's districts may be altered now only by a two-thirds vote of the Legislature, LB459 would reduce that requirement to a majority of the members.

Mrs. Orme and 15 co-sponsors presented two bills to transfer food sanitation inspection duties and the inspection of hotels, rooming houses, boarding houses, apartment houses, tourist camps, motels and restaurants from the Department of Agriculture to the Department of Health.

Equal Pay

Mrs. Orme announced she has also collected the signatures of 47 colleagues (all but Sen. Clifton Batchelder of Omaha) for a new bill correcting an error in the 1967 law guaranteeing equal pay for equal work performed by women.

Other new bills would limit advertising expenses by power districts to two-tenths of one percent of their gross revenues; require political subdivisions to publish their lobbying expenses, and prohibit the expenditure of school funds for membership dues in any association of school boards.

Sen. Donald Elrod of Grand Island introduced the fifth homestead tax exemption bill, providing exemptions for homesteads occupied by totally disabled veterans.

Elrod also produced a proposed constitutional amendment authorizing total tax exemption for such homes.

(The constitutional amendment approved by voters last November only permits partial tax exemption for homesteads.)

Elrod and six of his colleagues sponsored LB457, which would extend the unemployment benefit table to a new high of $48 a week.

Wednesday's bill production brought the total to 468.

Legislative Bills Introduced

By Associated Press

Lincoln (AP)—Bills introduced in the Legislature Wednesday:

LB428 (Carpenter) — Removing an $18,000 limit on the salary of the state health director, and authorizing the State Health Board to fix the salary.

LB429 (Kokes, Wallwey) — Authorizing power districts to sell out to nonprofit cooperative corporations domesticated in Nebraska.

LB430 (Clark, Carpenter) — Exempting from the tax on deeds those deeds to a family corporation.

LB431 (Kokes, Wallwey) — Providing a method for dividing a rural or suburban fire protection district into two or more districts.

LB441 (Wallwey, Kokes, Holmquist) — Variously revising law related to power line interconnections and disposition of surplus power.

LB442 (Knight) — Directing the State Health Dept. to adopt a plumbing code.

LB443 (Waldo, Kremer)—Required licensed veterinarians to take refresher courses annually, beginning in 1971.

LB444 (Carstens)—Providing that appeal to the district court shall not say the enforcement of a probation order in juvenile court.

LB445 (Elrod, Swanson)—Submitting to voters a constitutional amendment grant-

LB446 (Elrod, Swanson)—Providing a homestead tax exemption for veterans totally disabled by military service.

LB447 (Orme, Swanson, Knight, Simpson, Warner)—Revising rules of the road pertaining to turns at intersections.

LB448 (Orme, Swason, Knight, Warner)—Rewriting rules of the road pertaining to right-of-way at intersections.

LB449 (Holmquist, Kokes, Wallwey)—Revising the standards for determining the operating area of a public power and irrigation district.

LB450 (Swanson, Holmquist)—Broadening investments which public power districts may make.

LB451 (Pedersen, Carstens)—Limiting to two-tenths of 1% of gross revenues the money which a power or utility district or municipality in the gas or electricity business may spend for advertising.

LB452 (Robinson, Wallwey, Stull, Wiltse)—Revising provisions of law for purchase of retirement annuity contracts for employes of state colleges.

LB453 (Robinson, Danner, Simpson, Carstens)—Appropriating $640,000 from the state building fund to build a gymnasium at the Kearney Boys Training School.

LB454 (Orme, Knight)—Making mandatory the vaccination of dogs against rabies, effective next Oct. 1.

LB455 (Elrod, Castens, Syas, Klaver, Johnson, Robinson, Craft)—Giving liens for delinquent employer contributions to unemployment compensation fund a priority over tax liens.

LB456 (Elrod, Carstens, Syas, Klaver, Johnson, Robinson, Craft) — Modifying disqualification provisions for unemployment benefits in law related to employment security.

LB457 (Elrod, Carstens, Syas, Klaver, Johnson, Robinson, Craft) — Extending unemployment benefit table to raise maximum benefit from $44 to $48 per week.

LB458 (Elrod, Carstens, Syas, Klaver, Johnson, Robinson, Craft) — Providing when unemployment benefits may be paid while an appeal is pending.

LB459 (Syas) — Submitting to voters a constitutional amendment requiring the redistricting of Nebraska Supreme Court districts after each decennial census.

LB460 (Knight, Hasebroock) — Providing exceptions to the limit on bank loans to certain individuals.

LB461 (Hasebroock, Knight) — Excluding certain federal obligations in computing the maximum amount of loans and investments that a bank may own.

LB462 (Orme) — Increasing bond requirement for person applying to dispose of solid wastes, but eliminating application and annual fees.

LB463 (Orme) — Authorizing vacations for fulltime legislative employes at the rate of one working day for each year of employment.

LB464 (Orme, Pedersen, Swanson, Robinson, Moylan, Craft, Elrod, Luedtke, Simpson, Reynolds, Moulton, Knight, Mahoney, Bloom) — Transferring from Agriculture Department to Health Department duties and responsibilities for registration and inspection of hotels, rooming houses, tourist camps, motels and restaurants.

LB465 (Orme, Pedersen, Robinson, Moylan, Craft, Elrod, Swanson, Knight, Luedtke, Simpson, Reynolds, Moulton, Mahoney, Bloom) — Transferring from Agriculture Department to Health Department all functions with respect to sanitary inspection of food manufacture, sale, storage or distribution.

LB466 (Holmquist, Wallwey, Kokes) — Prescribing civil penalties for directors of public power districts which fail to comply with provisions of law covering such districts.

LB467 (Carpenter) — Prohibiting expenditure of school funds for membership dues in associations of school boards or boards of education.

LB468 (Carpenter, Bloom, Skarda, Mahoney) — Deleting a prohibition in state law against the agency shop.

PIN-WORMS
A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Memorial Services Held For Senator Matzke

By Associated Press

"There is some of Stan that is just never going to die."

Those words came from the Rev. Charles Stephen of Lincoln Wednesday during memorial services in a solemn legislative chamber for Sen. Stanley Matzke of Milford who died Sunday at the age of 70.

Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora recalled the drought days of the 1930's when many Nebraska farmers vacated their homes for greener fields, but Matzke "saw the potential of Nebraska and decided to stay and give himself.

Dreams and Visions

"He's seen many of his dreams and visions become reality," Kremer said.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann put it: "He labored a lifetime to make things come to pass."

And Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly: "He had dedication to a belief. He had a full life because he gave so much."

Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha, who sat next to Matzke in the legislative chamber, and Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, who chaired the Budget Committee of which Matzke was a member, praised his legislative skill and ability to take a common sense approach.

"If he had some word to leave with us, it would be to cut out the bickering, take just the issues, decide them and then full steam ahead," Proud said.

Proud said Matzke often "took the wind out of my sails. Whenever I would get wordy, he would signal me to sit down. Once he stomped on my foot."

Sen. John Knight of Lincoln praised Matzke's "continued struggle to keep the concept" of post high school vocational education advancing and his "foresight, relevancy and perseverance."

On matters of higher education, he was never afraid to "puncture academic ego to put things into perspective," Knight said, and he was "disdainful of a stand-pat attitude."

Six University of Nebraska sophomore students in the descriptive geometry and working drawings class of Prof. Thomas C. Smith have developed a prize winning design for a hunting seat.

The six engineering mechanics students on the Lincoln campus who topped four other teams in a design contest are Jay Schluckebier of Seward, John Tritt of Kimball, Michael K. Turner of Omaha, Craig A. Scherzberg of Grand Island, John C. Morris of Omaha and Thomas Hilsabeck of Holdrege.

NU's Mid-Year Commencement To Be Held Saturday

The University of Nebraska will confer about 750 degrees Saturday, including 185 graduate degrees, at the largest mid-year commencement in the 100-year history of the institution.

Until this year the record number of mid-year graduates was 662 in 1950. Last year 628 students graduated.

Commencement exercises will begin at 10 a.m. in Lincoln's Pershing Auditorium.

Legislation To Aid Counties Held

Legislation which would give counties an additional $300,000 a year in state aid through allocation of documentary stamp tax funds was heard by the Revenue Committee and held for further consideration.

County representatives supported the proposal. There was no expressed opposition.

The bill, LB41, sponsored by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff would allocate to the counties one-half of the revenue collected from the new state tax on transactions of real estate.

The tax raised $590,000 for state government in 1968. Under Carpenter's proposal, counties could thus expect about $295,000 in annual revenue from the levy.

Lancaster County would receive an estimated $43,620 a year. Douglas County would get about $86,300.

An alternate Carpenter proposal, LB40, would allocate 3% of the tax receipts to the counties as a collection fee to help reimburse them for their costs.

The state would lose about $17,700 a year under LB40.

Support for the bills was expressed by Arnold Ruhnke, representing the Nebraska Association of County Officials, and by a number of county officials and their spokesmen.

Advanced to the floor on a 5-0 count was LB39, making minor changes in the documentary stamp tax act as recommended by the state tax commissioner.

Public Works

Two bills designed to put the financially-distressed Bellevue toll bridge on a sound fiscal footing received 6-0 approval Wednesday of the Legislature's Public Works Committee.

The measures, in effect, permits a payoff arrangement with present bondholders, who have received not one payment on principal or interest since the bonds were issued by the Bellevue Bridge Commission some 18 years ago. The legislation also permits Sarpy County and the City of Bellevue to acquire the bridge, and issue some general obligation bonds for that purpose. Federal help is envisioned.

The measures, LB51 and LB52, were introduced by Sen. Orval Keyes of Papillion and drew no opposition

Urban Affairs

The Legislature's Urban Affairs Committee Wednesday unanimously sent to the floor two companion bills giving Omaha's Metropolitan Utilities District (MUD) a more flexible position in bond financing.

LB214 would make the redemption of bonds after five years optional rather than mandatory, and LB213 would authorize the governing board to sell bonds at its discretion rather than in the open market to the highest bidder and would remove the 20-day advertising requirement.

MUD representatives said the measures would give MUD a better position on a "quickly changing market."

Lt. Syslo Named Patrol Dist. Head

State Patrol Lt. Raymond J. Syslo of Lincoln will be promoted to captain in charge of the Patrol's Lincoln District, State Patrol officials announced Wednesday.

Syslo, who has been acting commander of the Lincoln district — which include 15 southeastern counties — will be promoted Feb. 1.

Syslo, 43, served in the Merchant Marine in World War II and was a member of the Columbus poilce department for about 15 months before joining the Patrol in 1949.

During his 20 years with the Patrol, he has held assignments in the Ashland, Fairbury and Lincoln areas.

Scotts Bluff County Officials To Okay Reappraisal Pact

State Tax Commissioner Murrell B. McNeil said Wednesday Scotts Bluff County officials are expected to sign a real estate reappraisal contract in the near future.

He said he expects the county to have signed the contract and the contract to be approved by his office by March 1.

Scotts Bluff County failed to sign a contract by the Jan. 1 deadline on advice from State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff that he would introduce a bill abolishing the requirement. The bill has been thrown into the hopper.

Carpenter also introduced a resolution on the first legislative day, seeking to delay the necessity of a contract signing.

But Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer told Sen. George Syas of Omaha a resolution would be insufficient to "authorize the counties to fail to obey the law, or the tax commissioner to fail to perform his duties within a reasonable time, or to increase the period a reasonable time."

McNeil stepped in and told the county to sign a contract or the state would do it.

Carpenter's resolution is still scheduled to come before the Revenue Committee and Chairman Jules Burbach of Crofton said he supports the mandatory reappraisal until every county has made a review at least once.

After that, Burbach said it may be possible to amend the law to allow recognition of new conditions.

Sen. Syas Would Accept Vacant Budget Unit Seat

Veteran Omaha Sen. George Syas said Wednesday he would be willing to accept an assignment to the Legislature's Budget Committee but is not pushing for such an appointment.

The Unicameral's Committee on Committees will be called upon to name a Budget Committee member to replace Sen. Stanley A. Matzke of Milford, who died Sunday.

Sen. William Wylie of Elgin, chairman of the Committee on Committees, said his group probably will meet Friday morning to consider the committee assignment readjustments.

Sen. Matzke's successor in the Legislature will be appointed by Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann. The governor said Wednesday he does not know when he will be ready to make the appointment.

Syas, who has served in the Unicameral since 1951 and who has twice been a Budget Committee member, currently holds no committee chairmanships but serves on Labor, Public Health and Salaries and Claims Committees. To take a Budget Committee assignment he would have to give up the other committee posts, as Budget Committee members serve only on that committee because of the fulltime nature of its work.

Municipalities League Names Joern To Post

William C. Joern of Lincoln has been named assistant to Kenneth Bowen, executive secretary of the League of Nebraska Municipalities effective Feb. 1.

Joern will also serve as editor of the "Nebraska Municipal Review," Bowen announced Wednesday.

His primary duties, Bowen said, will be to coordinate training programs for municipal officials under the Title I Act of higher education.

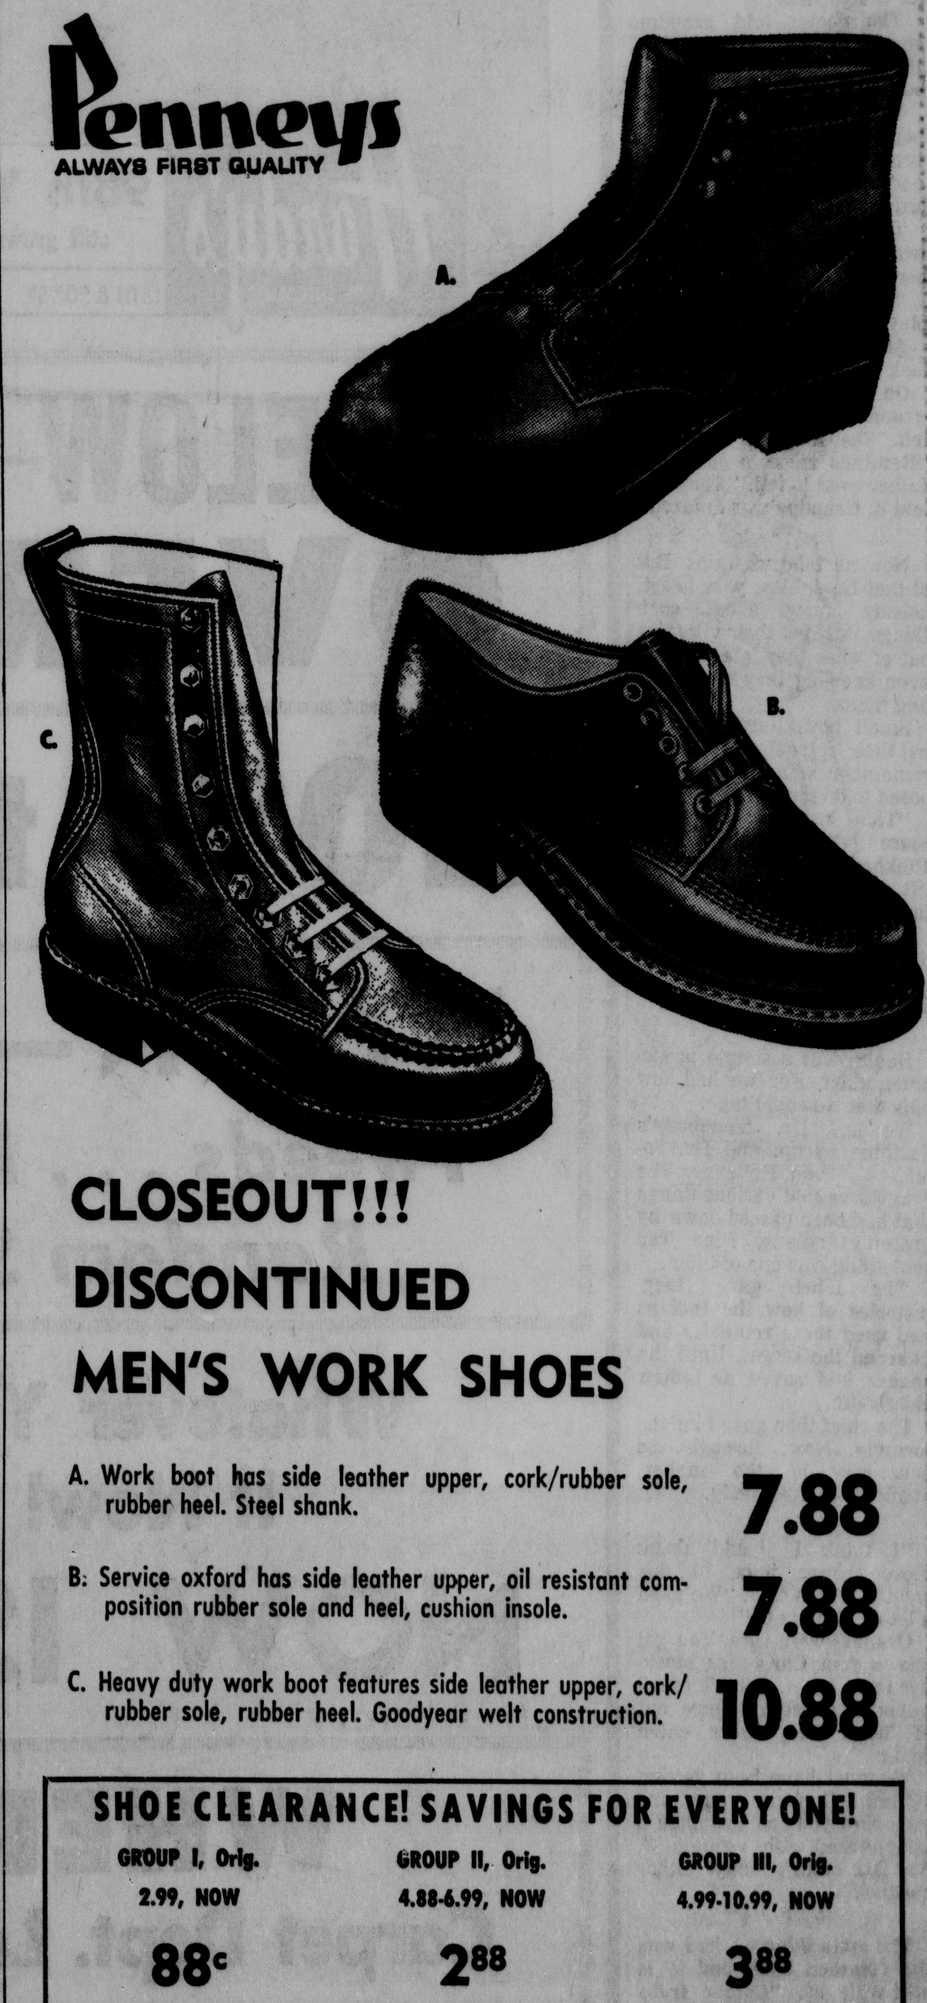

Joern will also work closely with various state departments in an effort to bring about a better understanding of state finance programs, as well as those at the federal level.

Stormy weather. When I got up rain was coming down by the bucketful. "All hands to the pumps," I said. The household rose groaning. "What time is it?"

A few worms were out. But no early birds. All flights delayed by weather.

Science has studied the earthworm. Finds he is able to learn more between 8 p.m. and midnight than he can between 8 a.m. and noon.

Thus the early worms picked off by early birds are stupid fellows. They go to bed early and learn nothing. The world's better off without them.

☆ ☆ ☆

"I hate rainy mornings," she said. Not I. I like rainy mornings and am cheerful to the point that some people cannot bear it.

They should take Lydia Pinkham's. I thought this famous compound had gone the way of the iceman's horse and the straw hat. But no. I ran into an ad for it in the paper.

In grandma's day, hundreds of women took it. It was the day of patent medicine. Many of them laced with enough gin to put the user on the chandelier.

☆ ☆ ☆

"Have some coffee and you'll feel better," I said. "Think how good the rain is for the garden."

The doctor told grandma she should gain a few pounds. He advised her to drink a bottle of beer with lunch.

We were a teetotal household. A spoonful of brandy in the plum pudding and that was all. But, doctor's orders and all that —.

The beer did grandma a world of good. She said so herself.

"I feel like a kitten could play with me," she said.

After lunch she went in and took a nap.

On Sunday she told my grandfather how good she felt. She laughed and said: "Reminds me of a story my father used to tell." Then she told it. Grandpa was amazed.

☆ ☆ ☆

Now we take vitamins. But at that time, bless your heart, nobody knew about such things. Just got their vitamins out of what they ate without even knowing they were getting them.

Small boys were urged to eat their spinach. But I can't remember what it was supposed to do for you.

"This beer is doing me more good than Lydia Pinkham's," said grandma. "It gives a person a nice fuzzy feeling."

She was a little sorry when the doctor said he thought she'd put on enough weight. Back to Lydia Pinkham's.

☆ ☆ ☆

Health was a simple proposition then. For we had few pills that we could take.

We had Dr. Somebody's Soothing Syrup. and Dr. So-and So's Pain Reliever. The drugstores sold various things that had been passed down by grateful Indians. Pine Tar something was one of them.

The label gave long histories of how the Indians had used these remedies and guarded the secret. Until the maker had saved an Indian chief's life.

The chief then gave him the formula. Now, through the generosity of the maker, available to everybody.

☆ ☆ ☆

"I think I should drink more orange juice in this weather," she said. "We need a lot of Vitamin C."

Oranges were rare. You got one in your Christmas stocking for a treat. I don't recall anybody squeezing juice out of them. They were eaten whole.

We must have been getting Vitamin C from something else. Now you can just take a pill, packed with Vitamin C, A, B12 and many other goodies.

☆ ☆ ☆

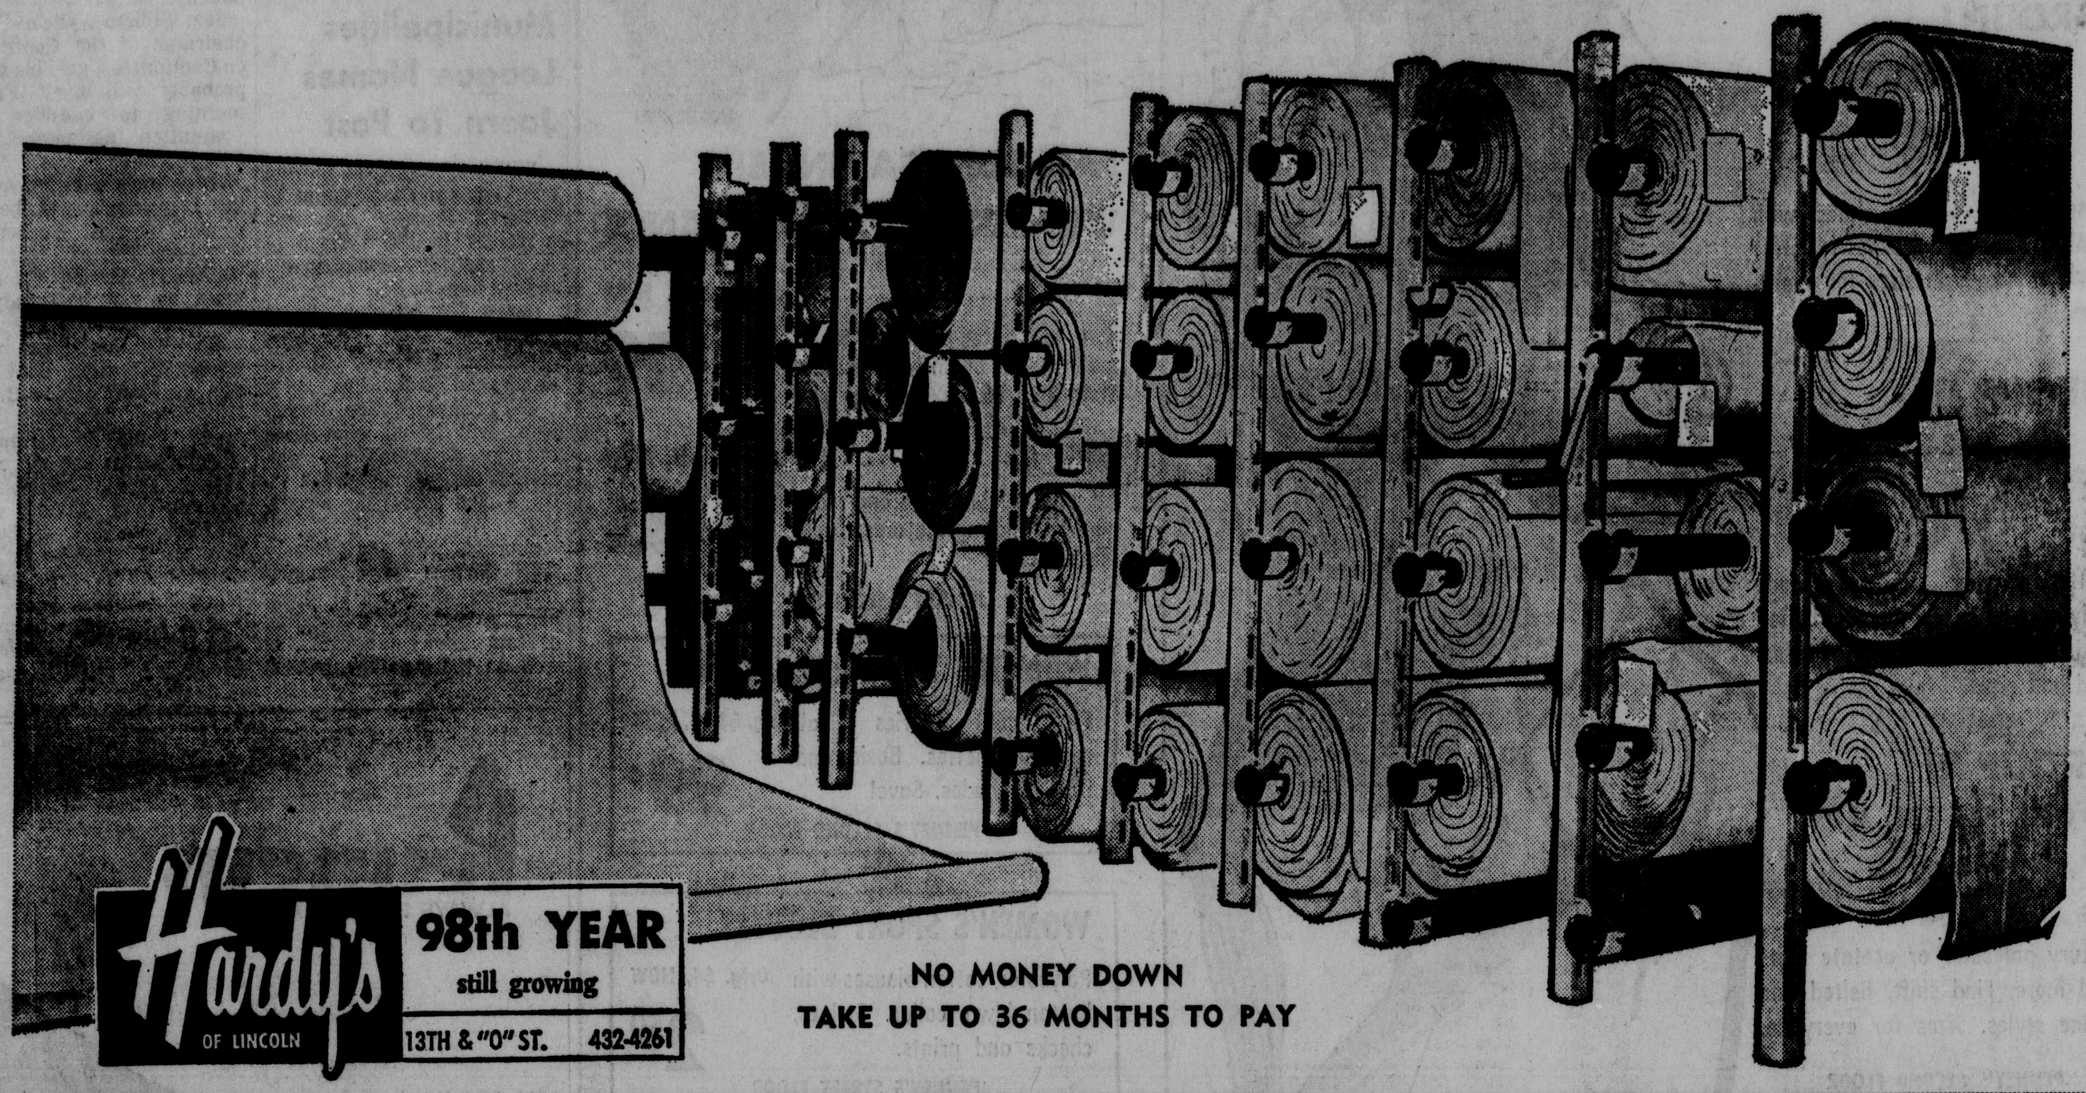

The main thing we had was the common cold, and it is still with us. "Comes from getting your feet wet," said grandma. "You ought to have sense enough to come in out of the rain."

She rubbed with some kind of mustard stuff on my chest. "Feed a cold and starve a fever," she said.

Low-Income Families Can Now Seek Home Mortgage Aid

By JOAN LOOKER
Star Staff Writer

Low-income families in the Lincoln area along with hundreds of people across the nation can now apply for monthly supplements to reduce the interest rates of mortgages on new and rehabilitated homes.

The assistance program is funded by the federal government under Section 135 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968. It is administered by the Federal Housing Administration and was put into effect in Nebraska shortly before Christmas.

If an individual qualifies within the established income limits for the city in which he lives, the interest rate can be adjusted down to as low as one per cent. The government will pay the difference (to the lender) between the market interest rate (currently 6¾%) and the amount the borrower is able to pay.

The two income limit scales are based on either the family's adjusted income, or the exception income limit established by the FHA.

Higher Income

The exception income limits make an interest subsidy possible for families with slightly higher incomes. Up to 20% of the federal funds can be used for these families.

The limits: for one person, $4,650; for a family of two, $5,650; family of three or four, $6,600; family of five of six, $7,600, and for seven persons or more, $8,600.

About 80% of the funds will be used for assistance of families in the classification judged by adjusted family incomes. These figures are derived by subtracting five per cent from the gross yearly income of the family and subtracting $300 for each minor child.

The adjusted family incomes for the Lincoln area: one person, $3,240; family of two, $4,320; family of three, $4,725; family of four, $5,130; family of six, $5,940; family of seven to ten 6,345.

To figure out if a family's adjusted income fits within the limits, the following procedure must be followed. If a family of six has a gross yearly income of $7,200, subtract five per cent, which leaves $6,840, minus $300 for each dependent (four in this case) which gives the adjusted famly income of $5,640. This figure falls below the $5,940 limit, so the family could receive an interest subsidy.

The amount of the subsidy is computed from the amount of the adjusted income and the amount of the mortgage paid monthly.

A mortgage cannot exceed $17,500 in Nebraska to quality for the program. The mortgage term in general is for 30 years.

The adjusted income program requires a minimum investment of $200, while the excepted income program for families with higher incomes requires three per cent of FHA's appraised value as down payment.

An owner of an existing home cannot use the money to refinance his own home, even if rehabilitation is involved.

Applications are available through lending agencies, builders and contractors.

In the Lincoln area only 25% of contracts for assistance authorized by appropriations prior to July 1, 1969 may be for existing dwellings. The remainder is for new and substantially rehabilitated homes.

Other Nebraska towns that have been funded are Clarkson, Clay Center, Deshler, Hay Springs, Norfolk, Omaha, Red Cloud, Schuyler and Winnebago. Additional funds have been requested for other towns.

Meeting On Parks For Mobile Homes Set For Saturday

A joint meeting of the Nebraska Mobile Homes Association and the Great Plains Housing Institute will be held at the Lincoln Hotel beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday.

EXCHANGE REFORM HIT

(N.Y. Times Service)

Brussels — Raymond Barre, a vice president of the European Common Market's Executive Commission, Wednesday assailed the idea of reforming the world's monetary system by providing more flexible exchange rates.

The attack was made six days after President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers suggested that such reform might be considered. What the Nixon administration thinks on this point is not yet known.

Barre's comments coincide with the thinking of many European central bankers. His remarks were delivered before the European parliament in Strasbourg. A partial text was released at the commission's Brussels headquarters.

Equitable Tax Burden Urged By Economist

Washington (AP) — A labor union economist claimed Wednesday that some wealthy people are escaping payment of federal income taxes, some poor people are paying more than their share and urged that both situations be rectified.

Frank Fernbach of the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers said no wealthy American could justify escaping tax support of his government and that impoverished people should be removed from the tax rolls.

He said some multimillionaires are escaping federal income taxes through oil and gas depletion allowances, investment in tax-free state and city bonds, excessive charity deductions and capital gains loopholes.

Also, he said, individuals should be removed from tax rolls if their income is below federal poverty standards.

In The Designing World–It's Spring

In the spring a designer's fancy turns to thoughts of fashion and, of course, women. He also depends upon the feminine sex to make him a success — and it has.

Not all designers achieve their goals, but names such as Hannah Troy, Teal Traina, and many others, have reached the pinnacle.

Hannah Troy has a designer whose name is Murray Nieman who turns fabrics into glamorous apparel.

But let's begin at the extreme left — Here we have a Teal Traina costume of bright white wool in a tunic topper. The topper covers a flip of pleats.

This costume really is a sleeved and pleated wool crepe dress over which is worn the long-length jacket. It's new for spring, '69.

We mentioned Hannah Troy and Murray Nieman — In the center we show you one of the designer's three-part, singularly smashing creations. It is in tan and white wool, and the little vest tops a belted patch-pocket skirt, and a contrasting navy, brown and white silk shirt.

At the right — Hannah Troy and Murray Nieman again — This time it is a silk print shirt dress in bold black and yellow plaid with blouson bodice with shirt sleeves. There is a lightly gathered skirt and — versatility again — the illusion of a separate apron which is bound with black silk at the wrists, and sashed at the waist.

Rome Show Unexciting

By GLORIA EMERSON
(c) New York Times Service

Rome — Take a long skinny silk scarf and wrap it tightly around your head, loop it loosely around your neck, or use it as a band to cover a bared bosom. That's the idea in a lot of the new Rome spring-summer couture collections shown here this week. It's certainly not an earthshaking one either. After all, Yves Saint Laurent launched the long, long scarf in Paris a year ago and the first to do it here was Valentino.

The fact is that there are not many fresh, even ticklish, ideas in the Italian shows or the long scarf wouldn't keep on coming out.

Miles and miles of white trousers are marching through the Italian salons, too.

There's also a bit of a gypsy look seeping through some of the collections, even if people quibble about what to call it. The gypsy look means a full colorful skirt, or a flounced one. In Fabiani's show Monday night, he showed very wide striped chiffony skirts, worn with gaudy little vests and shirts. Nothing matched, but that's the idea.

Some of the flounced dresses in the Valentino show last Saturday were more Mexican than gypsy but the mood was the same. The only trouble is that London has already launched its own gypsies so the idea is well under way.

There was none of that nonsense in the Mila Schoen show Sunday, for this Milanese designer went on with her very sculptured seams, and her beautifully hand-beaded dresses for evening. The designer's new coats are in white double-face wool with colored insets on the skirts that look like calder mobiles. Some of her coats had wide bands going across the shoulders and down the sleeves. There was much purple combined with yellow, and no one seemed too happy about that.

At Federico Forquet's show, the No. 1 coat was white, with sunburst pleats. Naturally it had a long white silk scarf around the neck. Sleeveless coats by Forquet are also white with a print that looks like the strokes of a paint brush. Not much meat and potatoes in the show, however, for Forquet concentrated on bathing suits covered by long side-wrap gypsyish skirts with separate shawls over the hips.

Italy is carrying on with the see-through look that Saint Laurent introduced way back there in Paris, but it's not worth thinking about. The see-through look, of course, has moved over into men's wear here so no one jumped when a long white transparent organdy shirt was launched by testa-flying cross at their show Monday. The most a woman can hope for is that the man who wears it has a good tan.

It Can't Be True!

By LEONORA DODSWORTH

Rome (AP) — "Boys will not be boys this summer." This was the disconcerting message delivered by a group of Rome tailors Friday as they showed warm weather styles here. Male models with heavy make-up and wearing some very feminine-looking fashions made spectators think that the women's fashion presentations due to start Saturday had been put forward a day.

Beach and resort fashions occasioned some of the most exaggerated ideas. Skimpy little boleros and tops fitting daintily to the waist were worn over bare skin. Silk print foulards were tied at the neck, with the ends flying out over the shoulder just like girls wear them.

Suits with short curvy jackets proved that men as well as women look unsightly unless the jacket is long enough to cover the hips. Siviglia showed some of the most far-out styles. Sheik of Araby evening robes in slinky black satin were styled like a woman's shirtwaister. They were worn softly sashed at the waist and with a matching scarf tucked in the neckline. A draped turban completed this "femme fatale" look for the males.

Chain necklaces and medallions are out of fashion for the men, say these Italian designers. But one showed a roll-neck shirt in black chiffon with the front swagged by fine gold chains.

The newest shoe was shaped like a child's round-toed summer sandal with t-bar strap. It was made in black patent to be worn for evening—without socks.

These shows gave a big boost to the unisex style of dressing.

And with all those pants suits that have been promised by the women's wear designers whose shows start Saturday, it looks as though it's going to be difficult to tell the hims from the hers. Worn by a woman, they would have looked very chic. On a man, they were pure drag.

A bride-elect of late February will be the guest of honor next Tuesday when Mrs. James McKelvey will be a hostess at her home.

The party will honor Miss Victoria Varvel, whose betrothal to Olaf Martin Stokke, Jr., was revealed recently. During the party, a miscellaneous shower will be presented to the honoree, and co-hostesses with Mrs. McKelvey will be Mrs. Irving Bloom and Mrs. Philip Corkill.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Varvel, the bride-to-be is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, where she currently is studying for her Masters degree.

Miss Varvel has revealed that the wedding will take place at St. Paul Methodist Church, Saturday, Feb. 22, at a 7:30 o'clock evening service.

Alumnae

The members of the Mothers Club and the housemother, Mrs. Dorothy Vanderslice, will be special guests on Saturday when the Lincoln Alumnae of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority will meet for a 1:30 o'clock program in the faculty lounge of the Nebraska Wesleyan University Campus Center.

Program speaker will be Warren Urbom, vice chairman of the university's board of governors.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, March 29.

Miss Connell was graduated in 1966 from the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Chi Omega sorority, of which she served as president, and of Mortar Board, honor society for senior women. She now is a member of the Santa Clara, Clara, Calif., public schools faculty.

Lt. Brunk is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., and is stationed at the Moffett Field Naval Air Station, Mountain View, Calif.

Attendants Named

Miss Victoria Ray Heggen and her fiance, Robert Scott Newkirk, will be honored on Friday evening, Jan. 31, when Mr. Newkirk's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Newkirk, will be host and hostess at dinner, at Tony and Luigi's Restaurant.

For her wedding, which will take place at a 7 o'clock evening ceremony, Saturday, Feb. 1, at Christ Lutheran Church, Miss Heggen has chosen her sister, Mrs. Thomas Sorensen of Hardy, as her matron of honor.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Susie Peters of McCook, Miss Pat Tate and Miss Margaret Patton. Miss Joan Heggen of Des Moines, Iowa, will attend her cousin as flower girl.

Lighting the chancel candles will be Miss Heggen's cousins, Miss Rhonda Baker and Scott Baker of Des Moines.

Dana Newkirk will serve his brother as best man, and seating the guests will be Gary Davis, Ron Norris and Steve Yates. The groomsmen will be Tom Sorensen of Hardy, Gary Foster and Mike Edwards. Tommy Sorensen of Hardy, will be the ringbearer.

Square Dance

A change in location has been announced for the Saturday night dance of the Circle Eight Club. The dance will be held at the YWCA, not the Antelope Park pavilion.

MISS BARBARA OCKEN

The engagement of Miss Barbara Jeanne Ocken of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz W. Ocken of Seward, to William Chris Winter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Winter, is announced this morning by the bride-elect's parents.

The wedding is planned for Friday, July 25.

Mr. Winter attended Concordia Senior College at Ft. Wayne, Ind. Both Miss Ocken and her fiance are careering in Lincoln.

Around Town

If we could tell what we know no one would mind the fog, the sleet, the drizzle or whatever is in store for us in the way of weather.

IF — as you know — is a very large and, as is the case this morning, a most unfortunate word. That all adds up to the we-can't-tell angle.

We'll stretch that angle just enough to tell you that what we know has to do with the marriage of two well known Lincoln residents — but not to each other. We'll have more news when the weekend rolls around.

* * *

One thing we can tell, however, concerns the open house for which Dr. and Mrs. Ralph H. McGoogan will be host and hostess at their home on Saturday afternoon.

Dr. And Mrs. McGoogan are entertaining in courtesy to their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McGoogan of Lakeport, Calif., who, with their three months-old daughter, Alisa, are arriving today for a two weeks stay.

Sharing honors with Mr. and Mrs. McGoogan at the open house will be Dr. and Mrs. McGoogan's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Jones (Kathy McGoogan) of Wichita, Kan. Mr. and Mrs. Jones, who will be the weekend guests of Dr. and Mrs. McGoogan, were married last summer in Wichita, where Mrs. Jones is completing her studies at Wichita State University. Mr. Jones received his degree last August from the University of Kansas College of Law in Lawrence, and has joined his father's law firm in Wichita.

Fun News In Suburbia

If there is anything that has as much effect on all of the people all of the time as does the weather, we would undoubtedly be fairly hard-pressed to find it. Maybe that is why it's such a good topic for conversation; and perhaps, just perhaps, the inclement weather we've been experiencing recently is the basic cause of the "dulls" which seem to have invaded suburbia. Although not at epidemic proportions, the "dulls" (and its Monday-morning counterpart, the "blahs") have cut down considerably on activity of the social variety.

However, we must also mention the fact that Lincoln residents are merely following precedence, because try as we might we were unable to find a single famous historical event (unless you consider John Hancock's birthday) which occurred on Jan. 23. It's nice to know we're in tune with the past, but let's hope that the future sees fit to be just a bit more interesting!

However, life goes on as usual and there still have been a number of comings and goings, although the pace has slowed considerably. While most of us are concerned about how to get around on the ice, the thoughts of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Theobald of Park Manor are turned toward the future. Mr. and Mrs. Theobald will get away from the Nebraska winter in March when they will be taking a trip to Bermuda — but we'll have more about that later.

Ready to welcome a visitor who will arrive this evening are Fiene Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Seaberg. Their guest will be their son, James Seaberg, who, with his family, resides in Seattle, Wash. Mr. Seaberg, a graduate of the University of Nebraska, will arrive for the purpose of attending the University's Saturday morning commencement ceremonies at which his brother, Michael Seaberg, will receive his bachelors' degree.

Planning a trip for this weekend — providing the weather clears up a bit — are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moss and daughters, Gail and Ruth. The Moss family will go to Des Moines, Iowa, where they will be guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Pirnot.

Somehow, Lincoln-bound people also find ways to have fun, as evidenced by an event which took place last Saturday evening at the Belmont Community Center. Lincoln Heights residents, Bill Frost, was in charge of a dance which was held for the benefit of Senior Citizens in the area. About 80 people attended the festive occasion, and we understand that the music was provided by the honored guests themselves!

The news from the Trendwood neighborhood concerns a guest who arrived in Lincoln on Tuesday. Those serving as host and hostess are Mr. and Mrs. William Orr, and currently enjoying a short stay with the Orrs is Mrs. Charles Tantillo, who is visiting from her home in Topeka, Kan.

Luncheon Speaker

Arriving on Sunday will be Charles Parkhurst, director of the Baltimore Art Museum, who is to be the luncheon speaker at the Nebraska Art Association luncheon on Monday at the Sheldon Gallery.

Mr. Parkhurst will be accompanied to Lincoln by Mrs. Parkhurst, and on Monday evening they will be honored at dinner at the University Club.

Make Up Your Mind To Be Beautiful

Make up your mind — not just your face — to be beautiful!

That's the advice of the scintillating superstars who admit it takes know-how as well as determination to achieve today's "now" look of natural loveliness.

If you've tried — and tried again — yet still are bugged by your beauty routine and find that your makeup is letting you down, you may be committing some of these ten common beauty blunders which, once they're recognized, are easy to avoid.

1. DON'T fight nature, flaunt it. The first lesson to be learned, say the fair ladies whose looks are their fortunes, is to figure out your own style, then face up to it. If you're a Mia Farrow type, don't waste time trying to look like a Raquel Welch. Mia's made freckles so fashionable that Italian beauties are painting them on. Barbra Streisand, whose features are a far cry from Audrey Hepburn's, has found it pays to look fabulous, funny and fetching at the same time.

2. DON'T wear yesterday's makeup today. Cosmetics can create all kinds of magic, but they can't conceal blackheads or blemishes caused by clogged pores and plain, old-fashioned dirt. Today, when the natural, wholesome look is the last word, a clear, fresh skin is a must. So no matter how late the hour, if you want to turn bedtime into "beauty sleep", cleanse your face as faithfully as you do your teeth.

3. DON'T wear somebody else's eyebrows. Obviously, nobody's foolish enough to borrow another girl's brows — even if she could — yet it's amazing how many women ruin a perfectly good face by tampering with their own natural brow line. If yours are already arched, leave them alone except for an occasional clean-up, say beauty experts. Ditto, if they run straight across, are extra-heavy or on the thin side. And, unless your brows are exceptionally pale, don't let your eyebrow pencil show. Too much makeup here, as elsewhere, can detract from your basic beauty.

4. DON'T fool around with foundations. Of course, you need a foundation but it's essential to find the right type for your skin and the most flattering shade for your coloring, then stick to it. Choose liquid, cake or cream depending on whether your skin is dry, oily or a combination of both — in a color as close to your own skin tone as possible. Apply sparingly to avoid an artificial or "pasty" look. Remember your foundation should provide the base for a smooth, put-together face. Is a sense, you're just preparing your canvas and, after it's done properly, the real fun begins.

5. DON'T let old-fashioned face powder "date" you. Outmoded face powder which cakes, clogs, turns orange after a few hours or just looks like powder is as passe as shoes with pointed toes and spike heels. Now there's a totally new kind of powder, which, since it's both translucent and colorless, puts the accent on that fresh, unpainted look while still controlling the shine on forehead, nose and chin, the universal T (for trouble) zone. While most face powders are made of talc, a mineral, this new preparation, — prepared exclusively from a natural product found in the heart of the corncob — provides a gossamer veil of flattery yet can't cake up.

6. DON'T give yourself a black eye! Leading beauty editors and experts agree that eye-liner, eye-shadow and mascara can do wonders for any face. But any of these used to excess or applied carelessly is much worse than none. Don't use black eyeliner, say the experts, as it's too harsh even for brunettes. Brown or gray are the most flattering shades. And, if you wear false eyelashes in the daytime, trim them to look thick but not theatrical! Take time to put them on evenly and always save your glitter eyeshadow till the lights go on.

7. DON'T let your lips steal the spotlight. Lip gloss or an understated shade of lipstick is still high fashion, so don't fool yourself that a big painted mouth will add glamour to your appearance. It's more apt to make you look like you've been supping on strawberries or gorging on grapes. And, remember, that a mouth too bright or too prominent will draw interest away from your eyes — every woman's most appealing feature.

8. DON'T treat your hair like your husband's shirts. Though our grandmothers felt that more than two shampoos a month were bad for the tresses, many women today wash and set their hair two and three times a week with no harmful results as long as conditioners are used when necessary. But the "starched" look which results from too much spray, overteasing or overbleaching can turn a fair lady to a frump no matter how hard she tries to show off her crowning glory. And, needless to say, tinted hair needs regular care as nothing looks less lovely than dark roots.

9. DON'T choose an "in" style unless it's flattering. If you study the wardrobes of the best-dressed women, you'll notice that choice is a big part of their chic, and that each selects clothes that do the most for her good points while minimizing her less attractive ones. Even though black is very much back this season, you don't have to wear it if a color does more for you. It's you people notice, not your dress. And, if your legs are neither very long nor extra-lovely, you may want to modify the brevity of your mini-skirt, while playing up your swan-like neck, feminine bust or waspilike waist.

10. DON'T worry about your appearance when you're facing your public. A famous actress — more noted for her talent than her looks — was once cast in the role of a great beauty. And, somehow, while she was on stage she managed to create the illusion of beauty in the way she walked, held herself, spoke and laughed. Years later, when questioned about her long run in the role, she said. "Every time I walked on that stage, I felt beautiful."

If you do the best that you can for your appearance, then forget about the preparations and just feel beautiful, chances are you'll look that way, too.

Hospital Volunteers

Volunteers, and those interested in becoming volunteers, at the Lincoln State Hospital will meet for a noon luncheon, Thursday, Jan. 30, at the hospital cafeteria.

WICS Goal—To Aid Young Women

Making plans for the implementation of their nationwide program to combat poverty, giving aid to the disadvantaged with special focus on young women in the age group of 16 to 21, Lincoln volunteers of Women In Community Service, Inc. (WICS) met Wednesday morning at the YWCA.

Following an informal coffee, Norman Krivosha, Lincoln attorney, presided at an enrollment ceremony for a young, local woman who will enter the Job Corps in Omaha.

Mrs. Gerald Wilson, administrative director of supportive services for WICS, reported on the second annual North Central Job Corps regional conference, held at Kansas City, Mo., during which she visited the Women's Job Corps Center at Excelsior Springs, Mo. An orientation for new volunteers concluded the morning meeting.

From the left are Mrs. Frank Ullman, chairman of support programs; Mrs. W. Donald Humphrey; Mrs. Walter L. Waltke; Mrs. N. Bruce Hazen (standing), state chairman for WICS of the Church Women United; Mrs. Wilson, administrative director; Mrs. Albert L. Brown, project director; and Mrs. Vincent Breitfelder.

A cooperative group of women's organizations—interreligious, interracial and intercultural — designed to combat poverty in the nation, WICS was created in 1964 through the combined efforts of the National Council of Catholic Women, the National Council of Jewish Women, the National Council of Negro Women and the Church Women United.

Activities of WICS, which seeks to coordinate women's volunteer efforts, are directed by a staff at its Washington, D.C. headquarters, and a national board of directors.

Currently, the WICS volunteers are assisting in the recruitment and screening of young women for enrollment in the Job Corps.

In agreement with Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson who recently said, "When you teach a man, you teach an individual; when you teach a woman, you teach a family," the WICS volunteers believe young women, given education and training to prepare them for jobs and to fulfill their roles in the home and civic life, "will not be defeated by the contingencies of life."

Benefit Planned

All square dancers are invited to attend the annual dance sponsored by the Lincoln Square Dance Clubs council to benefit the March of Dimes.

The dance will be held from 8:30 o'clock to 11:30 o'clock on Thursday, Jan. 30, at Gateway Auditorium. Serving as general chairman for the dance is Roscoe Roeder.

The members of all square dance clubs in the city also are invited to attend the "graduation" program for those completing the beginners lesson series, to be held Monday evening at Antelope Park pavilion.

Bridal Showers

Two brides-elect of February shared honors recently at a courtesy to which their co-workers at the telephone company were invited guests.

A personal shower was presented to Miss Jeanne Hesse and Miss Judy Templeton at the evening party on Thursday, Jan. 16, for which Mrs. Michael Karns and Miss Arletta Haught were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Karns.

Miss Templeton will become the bride of University of Nebraska student, Randall L. Klein, on Friday, Feb. 14, and Miss Hesse's marriage to Richard L. McManaman will be solemnized Saturday, Feb. 15.

A series of prenuptial courtesies has been planned to honor Miss Hesse. Thursday evening, the soon-to-be bride will be presented a miscellaneous shower at a party for which Mrs. John Bordogna will be hostess at her home.

Former Pius X High School classmates of the bride-elect have been invited to the courtesy to be given Sunday afternoon. Mrs. May McDonnell and her daughter, Miss Mary Jo McDonnell, and Mrs. Ed Scdoris and her daughter, Miss Mary Kay Scdoris, will be hostesses at the McDonnell home in Omaha, and during the party, a kitchen shower will be presented to Miss Hesse.

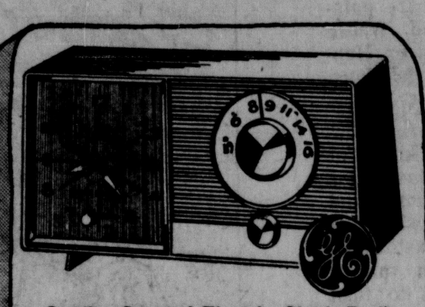

Entertaining for the bride-elect on Sunday, Feb. 2, will be Mrs. James Barry who will be hostess at her home to friends of Miss Hesse's mother and feminine members of the family. A linen shower will be presented to the honoree.

For the ceremony, which will be solemnized at 1 o'clock, at the Cathedral Of The Risen Christ, Miss Hesse has named Mrs. James Barry as her matron of honor. Her bridesmatrons will be her fiance's sister, Mrs. Ernest Chaput of Las Vegas, Nev., Mrs. Jerome Hammers of Minneapolis, and Mrs. John Bordogna, and Mr. McManaman's niece, Miss Kristin Chaput, will be the flower girl.

James Kinyoun of Omaha, will serve Mr. McManaman as best man, and the groomsmen will be Mark Merwick, Ed Gorynski and William Van Hook. Seating the guests will be Kent Banta, Thomas Malavoz and Gerald Murphy. The ringbearer will be Scott Barry.

Rita's MAILBOX

Another month is rapidly disappearing! I don't know where the time goes, but it surely goes fast. One comforting thought is that the cold weather will disappear with time as it passes. In the meantime, however, our furnaces are burning at a furious pace and that means that the air moisture in our homes is rapidly dissipated. Itchy, dry and bleeding noses are one result of too dry air. So keep the water pans on your heaters full. They say that proper moisture content in the air will even reduce the number of colds in your family. And, it does help to keep your hands from being too dry, which is a cause of chapped hands.

This is a rather dreary time of year. It is cold, and there are not so many activities. We are about rested from all of the "excessive activity" of the holiday season and as a result our minds look forward to the spring season with its gardening, housecleaning and outdoor activity. It is too early to get a real start on things, but our minds look forward to them. We can get an early start with small things, however. I am about to describe how to make a small gadget that will help to give your house a lift. If you have any ideas that will give us a head start on housecleaning, won't you please share them with us?

Do you feel anguish everytime you clean your floors because of the surplus electrical cords that clutter them like the arms of an octopus? Weep no more. Disconnect the cords from the wall plug. About eighteen inches from the plug start folding the excess wire back and forth in about five inch folds until there is only about a three or four inch slack. Tie a string, or wrap a rubber band, around the folded cord. Lay this down for the moment.

Cut a wax paper core to size, or use the core from a roll of bathroom tissue. Cover the core with a covering of your choice. Contact paper is nice, plastic in brown or a color to match your electrical cord, or a bright cheerful color, if you wish, will be fine. Scraps from material such as dress materials or from new drapes will be very pretty. Construction paper or wall paper also would be attractive.

The core all covered? All right, slip it over the plug end of your cord and down over the folded wire. Plug your cord into the wall outlet and you are in business again. The excess wire is hidden, the wire is off the floor, and a pretty cover hides the folds.

ABBY: God gave man the knowledge, power to cure illness

DEAR ABBY: I am a very religious person and believe that everything in this world happens as a result of God's plan and wishes. Am I wrong then to feel that when we fall ill, it is God's will and perhaps God is trying to punish us for some wrongdoing? That is why I never take any medicine. Why fight God's decision? If you can answer this, you are a genius.

HAS FAITH

DEAR HAS: I'm no genius, but ask yourself this: If your theory is right, why then did God give man the knowledge and power to conquer illness?

DEAR ABBY: I have been happily married to a big, good-looking Irishman for six years. We have two children. Mickey is a bartender, and I have never had any objections to the hours, temptations or anything like that until lately. His boss has told him to play up to the single women who come in — greet them with a big smile, a hug, and maybe a little smooch, and keep them sitting and buying drinks.

Well, there is one old widow who comes in nearly every night and stays until they close up. She's in no shape to get home on her own so Mickey takes her home. My question: Do you think Mickey has to go THIS far in the line of duty?

MICKEY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: How far does he go?

DEAR ABBY: A married male cousin of mine and his wife of some 40 odd years were visiting my husband and me for the week-end. While fully dressed and preparing breakfast, this married male cousin of mine came up behind me and surprised me with a kiss. No hug. Just a kiss.

I didn't think a thing of it, but after they had departed, my husband told me he saw "the whole thing." Then he became enraged because I hadn't thrown my cousin out of the house. He even said I must have encouraged my cousin and probably had further relations with him.

I assure you no such thoughts crossed my mind. Three years later my husbasd is still making nasty insinuations and accusations, and I am sick to death of hearing about it. What is your opinion of all this? We were all between 65 and 70 years of age, and the "kisser" is now dead. Thank you.

UNHAPPY

DEAR UNHAPPY: Don't be too hard on your husband on the chance that he is getting a bit addled in his old age. But when he starts with the ugly accusations, let him talk to himself.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "C K": It's useless to tell a grown daughter, "If you ever get into any trouble, come to me first." For if the proper relationship has been built over the years, she will. If it hasn't, the words will be meaningless.

Opening lead — seven of hearts.

"What can defeat me?" is a question declarer should always ask himself before embarking upon his course of play. One shouldn't dismiss even a remote possibility of failure without first trying to protect against it.

Here is a typical case. West leads a heart and declarer wins East's jack with the king. South has eight sure tricks — two spades, a heart, two diamonds and three clubs — and a certainty of two more if the clubs are divided 3-2.

There is no particular reason to expect a 4-1 or 5-0 club break, and South might therefore follow the usual practice of cashing first the ace and then the queen of clubs.

If he did this, he would discover soon enough that there was now no way of making the contract. Of course, he could ascribe this to bad luck, but actually it would be more accurate to charge it to bad play.

The proper play at trick two is a low club to the queen. Once both opponents follow suit, the contract is in the bag. A 4-1 division can no longer beat the contract.

Declarer continues with a club. If East produces the eight, South finesses the nine knowing full well that even if it loses he is sure of nine tricks.

If East produces the ten or jack on the club lead from dummy, South is all the more pleased, since he is now assured of an overtrick, whether or not West follows suit. Thus, if West shows out, declarer returns to dummy for another club lead through East, picking up the entire suit.

South is equally secure if it turns out that West is the player with four clubs. In that case, he concedes a club to West to establish his ninth trick. Finally, even if East has all five clubs, the immediate club lead to the queen once again guarantees the vital ninth trick.

Annual Council Meeting

Gordon V. Kuhn was re-elected president of the Lincoln Council of Camp Fire Girls, Wednesday evening, at the annual meeting of the organization held at the Lincoln Center.

New members elected to the board of directors were Mrs. Melvin Andelt, H. H. Hall, John Tomlinson, Mrs. John Furhman, Mrs. R. W. Hadfield, Mrs. Robert Brockley, Mrs. D. W. Edwards, Mrs. Ann Snyder and Mrs. Roy Thelander.

Honored for 25 years service to the council was Mrs. L. E. Liebers, and Mrs. Herbert M. Casey was cited for 20 years' membership. Ten-year leadership pins were awarded to Mrs. John Lux, Mrs. E. E. Martin, Jr., and Mrs. Donald Pierce, and 18 leaders were presented five-year pins.

A special honor for her work in organizing new groups and assisting in the work of the council was presented to Mrs. Elmer Scheele, and national awards for creative leadership went to Mrs. Arthur Hillman, Mrs. Dean C. McMurtry, Jr., Mrs. Eldon Nelson and Mrs. Kenneth Winkler.

The Ernest Thompson Seton award for more than five years administrative service to the council went to Miss Leora McGrew, and national awards for administrative service were made to Mrs. John Foster, Mrs. Francis Gowin, Mrs. George Pearce and Mrs. Roy Yaley.

A free "campship" — and sleeping bag — was presented to Miss Melinda Failor, top sales girl in the recent Camp Fire candy sale, and honored as the top sales group was the Hartley School 4th grade Camp Fire group of Mrs. DeWitt C. Mosher.

The annual meeting followed a covered-dish dinner and a program of entertainment.

News Of The New

Kitchens, as everyone knows, are no longer the chrome and shiny white laboratory like rooms they used to be. Every large and small appliance now comes in a variety of colors to please the taste of even the most discriminating homemaker.

Kitchen cabinets have risen in status from enameled metal boxes to finely crafted pieces of furniture available in veneers to match your precious French provincial dining room furniture. Reversible panels in the cabinet doors enable the clever homemaker to feature fabric panels to match her draperies one week and to change the panels back to wood the next.

One large appliance that has been receiving more attention lately is the refrigerator. With home entertainment becoming more popular every year, the automatic ice maker feature has sold hundreds of refrigerators. One model now available not only comes with the standard mannual ice compartment but it also includes an automatic attachment which may be installed by the home handyman when the family's entertainment activities or warm summer weather begin to place heavy demands on the ice supply.

Another convenience feature on refrigerators is adjustable door shelves. No longer will homemakers have to store the large economy size of catsup diagonally because the shelves on her refrigerator door are too shallow to stand the bottle upright.

While we are discussing the metamorphosis of kitchens from laboratory to showroom, let's not forget the walls. Painting used to be the only practical treatment for walls that were sure to become covered with everything from grease splatters to strawberry preserves. Those days are gone, thank goodness, because of vinyl wall paper. Even the elegantly flocked vinyl paper welcomes sponging with soap and water or light scrubbing with soft steel wool!

FOOD

it's party time

So you're planning a party! Here are some appetizers that are elegant and a little different — to make your party extra-special — Frosted Liver Sausage Pate and Vienna Sausage Bites in Sweet-Sour Sauce.

Sweet-Sour Sauce is simple to make. Just combine all ingredients in a saucepan and bring to a boil, then simmer. You can make the sauce ahead of time if you like, and warm it up just before the guests arrive. Add the sausages after the sauce has heated. If you prefer, substitute cocktail size wieners, franks, or smoked sausage links for Vienna sausages. All of these meats are pre-cooked and need only warming before serving.

The Frosted Pate is a little more trouble, but the effort is worthwhile when your guests admire the handsome results. Any five cup mold, without a center tube, may be used. If you shop a little you may find one to fit the theme of your party. Surround the pate' with melba toast and crackers. Plan to make the first cracker for yourself, for guests will be reluctant to cut into such a beautiful creation.

FROSTED LIVER SAUSAGE PATE

- 1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup cold water
- ½ cup salad dressing
- 1½ pounds liver sausage
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 1 package (3 ounce) cream cheese, room temperature
- ¼ cup cognac, optional
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 2 teaspoons Worchestershire sauce

Chill a 5-cup mold (without tube) in freezer. Soften gelatin in cold water; melt over low heat. Stir salad dressing into gelatin; cool until slightly thickened. Use ½ cup gelatin to line inside of mold. Brush several thin layers of gelatin over inside of unoiled mold; return to freezer between each brushing to set gelatin quickly. Blend liver sausage, butter or margarine and cream cheese until smooth. Stir in cognac, if used, onion, Worcestershire sauce and remaining gelatin mixture. Spoon mixture into mold; chill until firm. To unmold, dip into hot water quickly and turn onto serving plate at once; chill. Serve with favorite Melba toast, crackers or crisp vegetables. Yield 5 cups pate, makes about 80 bite-size snacks.

VIENNA SAUSAGE BITES IN SWEET-SOUR SAUCE

- ½ cup orange juice
- 1/3 cup sherry
- ⅓ cup honey
- ¼ cup finely chopped preserved ginger
- 2 tablespoons preserved ginger syrup
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon catsup
- 2 cans (4 ounces each) Vienna sausages* drained, whole or cut in half

Combine all ingredients except sausages in saucepan. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly; simmer gently 5 minutes. Add sausage links, simmer 5 minutes or until sausages are hot. Serve hot. Yield: 14 or 28 appetizers.

*If desired, 14 cocktail size wieners, franks or smoked sausage links may be substituted for Vienna Sausage.

Bake This In Your Oven

Purists claim there is no such thing as Vienna Bread — that it is just a name given to "pain riche" or rich French Bread. Nevertheless, Vienna Bread has made its way around the world in numerous guises. Aficionados generally agree that true Vienna Bread is a long loaf with a highly glazed crust sprinkled with poppy seeds. In this recipe, a mixture of water, cornstarch and salt is used for the glaze; a crustier loaf is obtained by placing a pan of hot water on the lower shelf of the oven which produces steam during baking.

VIENNA BREAD

- 7 to 8 cups unsifted flour
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 package active dry yeast
- 2 tablespoons softened butter or margarine
- 2½ cups very hot tap water
- Corn meal
- ½ cup water
- 1 teaspoon cornstarch
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Poppy seeds

In a large bowl thoroughly mix 2½ cups flour, sugar, 1 tablespoon salt and undissolved yeast. Add softened margarine or butter.

Gradually add very hot tap water to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add 1½ cups flour, or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed for 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down; turn out onto lightly floured board. Divide dough in half; let rest 15 minutes. Shape into 2 long tapered loaves and place on greased baking sheets that have been sprinkled with corn meal. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Meanwhile, prepare glaze. Combine water, cornstarch and ½ teaspoon salt in small saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring steadily, until mixture thickens. Remove from heat.

Brush glaze on loaves. Make 4 diagonal slashes on top of each loaf. Sprinkle with poppy seeds. Place a large pan of hot water on lower shelf of oven. Bake bread on upper shelf in very hot oven (450 degree F.) for 10 minutes. Reduce to moderate oven (350 degree F.) and bake 40 to 50 minutes longer, or until done. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks. Makes 2 loaves.

Have You Tried Skrunch?

Skrunch is a new fun-candy that's made in a milk carton, or in any waxed paper container, or molded free form in your own creative way. It is a mixture of cereals, nuts and chocolate or butterscotch chips held together with a syrup mixture. Skrunch is not just a candy but a play candy. Make a bowl of skrunch for a wide awake youngster, provide him with a variety of cartons and containers and let him come up with his own ideas. To make free form shapes; cool about 15 minutes then shape as desired.

SKRUNCH

- 2 cups corn flakes
- 1 cup crisp rice cereal
- ½ cup semisweet chocolate or butterscotch chips
- 1 cup broken pecans or walnuts
- ¾ cup light or dark corn syrup
- ¼ cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- ½ teaspoon vanilla or almond flavoring

Cut one end from waxed paper carton (select milk, cottage cheese, sour cream, yoghurt or other). Combine cereals, chocolate or butterscotch chips and nuts in large bowl; set aside. Combine corn syrup, sugar and margarine in a small or medium saucepan. Stirring constantly, bring to full boil over medium heat and boil 3 minutes. Remove from heat. Cool 10 minutes. Add vanilla or almond flavoring. Beat mixture with wooden spoon about 3 minutes or until mixture turns a lighter color and thickens. Pour over cereal mixture all at once. Toss to coat evenly. Press firmly into carton or cartons. (When using a 1-quart milk carton, press full amount of mixture into carton, then press mixture down about three inches from the top.) Chill until set, 1 to 2 hours. Cut off end of milk carton with a knife. Loosen Skrunch with spatula and slip out of carton or slit milk carton lengthwise at one corner and remove. Does not require refrigeration after loaf is set. Makes about 1 pound or enough to fill a 1-quart container ¾ full.

Note: To make free form shapes, cool about 15 minutes in the bowl and shape as desired.

Hunt For Plane Suspended

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann Wednesday called a temporary halt to the search for the missing small plane carrying two Augustana faculty members and four students.

The craft has been missing since about 6 p.m. Jan. 11 and was enroute to Sioux Falls, S.D., from a debate tournament in Colorado Springs, Colo. The plane is supposedly down somewhere in western Nebraska.

"Impossible weather conditions have forced me to make this decision," Tiemann said after a conference with South Dakota Gov. Frank Farrar.

Tiemann said he will direct the search be resumed when the weather clears and will utilize all available personnel and equipment at the state's disposal at that time.

Search pilots have been stymied through most of the search by bad weather.

The chief executive also cautioned inexperienced and ill-equipped volunteers against aiding in the search and rescue operation. He said there is danger of injury and exposure.

"We have done everything possible to recover the plane and its occupants for the time being," Tiemann said. "We'll just have to wait for the weather to improve."

In the meantime, a task force will remain at both Broken Bow and O'Neill to maintain constant communications contact.

Missing are the plane's pilot, Frayne D. Anderson, 43, debate team coach K. Don Tibbetts, 34, and students Joyce Estwick of Milan, Minn., Linda Heideman of Rapid City, S.D., Al Jensen of Pipestone, Minn., and James Housek of Mission, Kan.

Man Sells Car To Save Horse

Macon, France (AP) — When the last horse was retired from the coal mines in the Blanzy basin, it was put up for sale — to be butchered.

Revolted at the idea, farmer Louis Thery raised 1,700 francs ($340) by selling his car and turned the animal out to pasture.

NWU Paper Post To Jane Frovick

Jane Frovick, Pocatello, Ida., junior, is the new editor of "The Paper," Nebraska Wesleyan University's weekly student newspaper.

She succeeds Bill Wehrbein, Plattsmouth junior, who resigned after serving as editor the first semester.

Robert Chandler, Omaha senior, continues in his post as business manager.

Republican Unit Sets Meet Feb. 1

Mrs. Lorraine Orr, state chairman of the Republican Party, announced that the Republican State Central Committee will hold its first meeting of the year Feb. 1, at the Cornhusker Hotel at 9:30 a.m.

The agenda will include the election of state chairman and the executive committee.

Justice Dept. Official To Quit Racially Discriminating Club

Washington (AP) — Jerris Leonard, named to head the Justice Department's civil rights division, will resign soon from the racially restricted Milwaukee lodge of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, a department spokesman said Wednesday.

Leonard will quit that lodge as well as other local organizations in Milwaukee as part of his moving to Washington, the spokesman said.

At the same time, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell issued a statement saying he knew of Leonard's Eagles membership and of his plans to resign.

"In view of Mr. Leonard's outstanding record on civil rights in the Wisconsin legislature and in civil rights activities in Milwaukee," Mitchell said, "I believe that Mr. Leonard will prove to be an outstanding head of the civil rights division, dedicated to vigorous enforcement of the civil rights laws."

The statement — on Mitchell's first day in office — and the explanation from the department spokesman came after the Milwaukee Journal quoted Leonard as saying he plans to remain as a lodge member at least temporarily.

The Rev. James E. Groppi, a white Roman Catholic priest who has led Negro protest activities in Milwaukee, has made an issue in the past of the Eagles' membership restrictions.

Leonard himself was not available to newsmen but the department source quoted him as saying he only used the lodge's athletic facilities, and occasionally went to lunches there.

Lincoln General Not Interested In Operating Nursing Home

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln General Hospital trustees generally agreed Wednesday that they are not interested in taking on the operation of a nursing home in the old hospital building.

But the trustees want to get an appraisal of the old hospital land's value in relation to the future development needs of the new facility at that site before any immediate use of the old hospital is accepted.

The board decided on the necessity of an appraisal during a discussion about the feasibility of proposed uses for the former hospital building.

President Herb Hopkins emphasized that the hospital is "not in a position at this time to try to operate the old building as a nursing home.

"The city hospital doesn't have funds to remodel the structure to meet Medicare standards," he said. Any hospital funds should be spent on the new hospital's top three shell floors, he also declared.

Expansion Land

Trustee Joseph Soshnik indicated that "long-range planning for this (new) hospital should be the most important consideration of the board." Proposing the appraisal, he pointed out the site of the old building would be "prime expansion land" for Lincoln General.

The board also should find out how much it would cost to acquire property near the hospital in the event of future need, he said.

Hospital administrator Robert Brungard, who has recommended that the old building be razed and the land used for parking, told the board, "I know we are going to want the site someday."

Brungard submitted his recommendation to the board some time ago following a feasibility study for a long-term nursing care unit in the old structure.

$180,000

The study, which included an evaluation by architects, city and state fire officials and hospital staff, concluded that remodeling to meet minimum fire and nursing home requirements would cost at least $180,000.

However, he stressed several other costs might be added to the remodeling project due to the 1½-year vacancy of the structure and potential problems connected with using the old equipment. The provision of additional parking space, since the hospital's parking already is overcrowded, is unknown, he said.

Brungard also pointed out that the estimated renovation price would vary with the use decided for the old building. The costs presented "indicate the way we would do it," while another group might have different specifications.

Lancaster County officials had indicated that it would cost some $800,000 to remodel for a nursing home and $200,000 if the city granted exceptions to its building code provisions.

Meet Urged

Hospital board members proposed that a meeting be held with county officials to clarify the situation.

Trustee Mrs. Helen Boosalis argued that the community needs nursing home beds or senior citizen housing much worse than another parking lot.

She requested that a definite answer be obtained from the county on using the former hospital. Then the building should be offered to other groups, such as the Lincoln Housing Authority or private nursing home organization, she suggested.

Hopkins explained that the reason the old building was good enough for a hospital but now will not meet nursing home standards is that Medicare was established. The old hospital continued to operate under the "grandfather clause." While a new facility must meet the higher Medicare standards, he said.

Lincoln General Packed

Lincoln General Hospital has been "so full" this month that patients have been in the halls, Administrator Robert Brungard reported to the board of trustees Wednesday.

The high patient load during January follows a year of "tremendous growth" for the hospital, Brungard announced.

Last year was "one of the greatest growth years this hospital can hope to experience at one time," board members were told.

During the 12-month period, Lincoln General had an increase of nearly 12,000 patient days of care over 1967, more than 21% growth.

The hospital had 18% more admissions, some 1,400, and an average daily census of patients in 1968 of 170.4, compared with 139.8 the previous year, a 21% increase.

Already this month the hospital experienced an all-time high of 224 patients in one day, the administrator reported. So far, the average daily census has been 200 patients, he said.

Job Opportunity Unit To Advertise

Omaha (AP) — Discussion Wednesday at a meeting of the Nebraska Equal Employment Opportunity Commission indicated that the commission will hire an advertising agency to develop a program to educate the public about the commission.

The commission voted to adopt a program to involve radio, television and newspaper ads explaining what the commission is, what it does and what the laws are pertaining to equal rights.

'Government Would Find New Water Sources'

By THOMAS EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

The federal government will have to find new water sources for Lincoln at no cost to the city if the Platte River Dam project prevents the city from obtaining water from its underground wells near Ashland.

That was the report Wednesday of Edward Lawson, project engineer of the proposed dam near Ashland, to the directors of the Salt Valley Watershed District.

Lawson, who is with the U.S. Corps of Engineers, said the government would have to provide as good a quality and quantity of water as the city now gets.

He pointed out that the dam project, if built, would likely have a beneficial effect on the quality and quantity of the Platte River water for up to 150 years.

A dam at the proposed site would flood the wells which now provide Lincoln with water for residential and commercial usage.

Marion Clawson of Washington, D.C., told the group that water conservation organizations can look forward to continuous support from urban areas.

Clawson, whom is director of Resources for the Future, Inc., and a past U.S. Agriculture Department economist, said the idea of conservation in the areas of soil, water, and forests is the product of the past generation, beginning in the 1930's.

He also noted that today's generation is witnessing an "emptying of the country" as urban areas grow.

Clawson indicated this emptying out has produced a decayof the small, rural town in varying degrees.

He said the problems that occur because of the smallness of the town are especially true in those not near cities.

Water Study

Dr. Mark Hammer, an associate professor of civil engineering at the University of Nebraska, reported to the watershed district on the eutrophication study the university made of nearby salt water reservoirs.

The study deals with the filling up of water bodies with an excessive amount of plant life because of the presence of nutrients. The study was started by the district through a $5,000 grant.

"The seed money you provided has started a snowball and the research project will continue," Dr. Hammer said.

Not Available

He said a zoological report on area lakes will not be available immediately because the graduate student doing the study has been drafted for military service.

Questioned whether there are any solutions to the problem of lakes being ruined by the plant life, the professor said there is not adequate information to indicate a solution.

Dr. Hammer said remedial measures used on eutrophic lakes in Wisconsin included the cutting and removal of weed growth and dosing the reservoir water with chemicals to inhibit the growth of weeds and algae.

Resolutions were adopted eulogizing state Sen. Stan Matzke and Byron Dunn for their leadership in Salt Valley Watershed District activity. Both died this week.

Dunn was treasurer of the district.

Directors also approved the appointment of Dr. James Bradley of Malcolm to the district board to fill the vacancy created by the death last fall of Otto Liebers of Lincoln, who was president at the time of his death.

Other action:

—Approved the sale of district property, Dam 16A, to the State Game and Parks Commission.
—Approved channel stabilization contract on Dead Man's Run.

Red Cross Gets Notes Of Thanks From Servicemen

The Lancaster County Chapter of the American Red Cross has received numerous letters of thanks from servicemen in Vietnam for the "Operation Shop Early" Christmas bags filled with gifts and personal items.

More than 1,200 bags were prepared by groups and individuals in Lincoln and Lancaster County.

A letter from Maj. Gen. Ellis W. Williamson, the commanding officer of the 25th Infantry Division of the Army, said the bags were "distributed to men serving in our division's base camps, in bunkers, in rice paddies and on a remote mountain top."

"The men receiving the gifts," he wrote, "are most appreciative in that they know their sacrifices and endeavors in this land are not going unnoticed."

Opera House's Reopening Set

Milan, Italy (AP)— La Scala, Milan's opera house, will reopen Saturday after repairs to the ceiling of the main auditorium. A plaster slab crashed into the orchestra pit Jan. 3.

Antonio Ghiringhelli, the superintendent of the opera, said a technical commission would check the acoustics Thursday, but he added: "There is no doubt La Scala has preserved its acoustics despite the ceiling trouble."

General Named

Jakarta (UPI) — President Suharto named Maj. Gen. Amir Machmud as minister for home affairs.

4 Cosmonauts Hailed As Heroes

Moscow (UPI) — The Soviet Union's leaders and people gave the four Soyuz cosmonauts a heroes' welcome at the Kremlin Wednesday in ceremonies that also included acclaim for the U.S. Apollo 8 astronauts.

Thousands of Moscow citizens braved temperatures of 8 degrees below zero to stand along the snow-banked thoroughfare from the airport to the Kremlin. They cheered and waved red flags and banners as the cosmosauts passed in closed limousines.

Communist Party leader Leonid Brezhnev greeted each of the cosmonauts with a bear hug and a kiss after their arrival from the Baikonur Space Center, hailed them for their "courage and daring" and proclaimed them members of the Order of Lenin and official heroes of the Soviet Union.

Then he cited the Apollo 8 moon voyage together with the Soyuz manned docking and crew transfer maneuvers and Russia's latest Venus probes as major accomplishments for man's future in space.

Want a question answered? Action on something? Phone or write your request to ACTION LINE, The Lincoln Star or Sunday Journal and Star (see address above), giving your name or initials and town and specifying daily Star or Sunday. Personal contacts or telephone calls to other numbers will be refused. Inquiries not answered daily or Sunday within 30 days will be eliminated to permit publication of more recent inquiries.

My mother has not received her Social Security check for two months.
—Mrs., S., Lincoln.

ACTION LINE: Phone the Lincoln Social Security office (475-3581) relating details to the office worker. Since similar trouble was experienced in November and your mother signed papers to have the check traced, she will have to repeat the process for the December and January checks. ACTION LINE advice: remind Social Security personnel this is not the only time a foul-up has occurred.

I would like to know who caused the mail boxes on 9th and 10th Sts. just north of O St. to be removed and why.
—D. W., Lincoln.

ACTION LINE: Those mail drop boxes have been gone some length of time — the one on 9th St. was removed in the spring of 1968 and the 10th St. location was removed in August of 1968. The 9th St. box was removed because it violated regulations governing federal highways on which it was located. The 10th St. box created traffic back-up as far as O St. as patrons stopped at the location.

New replacement installed at that time were on the north and south side of P St. at the intersection of 11th. Drop boxes also were located at 11th and N and 7th and P Sts.

Who or what fund pays for sending Nebraska Wesleyan's band to play in the inaugural parade?
—M. Y., Lincoln.

ACTION LINE: Expenses for Nebraska Wesleyan University's Pride of the Plainsman Marching Band to the inauguration were divided in this fashion: NWU paid the bus fare, lodging was paid by alumni in the Washington, D.C. area, while each person on the trip paid for his or her own meals. The band did a fine job representing Nebraska in the parade, ACTION LINE asserts.

I applied for a job as a cab driver and was accepted. I passed all tests but when I got to the police department I was not allowed to take their police test as I had been convicted of a felony years ago.
—No Name Please, Lincoln.

ACTION LINE: A felon is not automatically denied a cab license, says Lincoln Safety Director Emmett Junge. Oh, yes. You apparently failed to list the felony on the cab driver application or discussion would have occurred before the police department. Junge says consideration can be given to the type of felony, how long ago it happened and the record of the applicant since the felony.

What is to prevent an automobile company that fleet-leases cars and is also an inspection station from okaying all its autos even when they are mechanically unsound? And the same goes for a service station owner giving the OK to his personal auto that is mechanically unsound.
—E.R.S., Lincoln.

ACTION LINE: State law says if an inspection station does as described in your question, the station can have its inspection license revoked and be fined $500 or six months in jail if found guilty in court. If these companies want to place themselves under penalty of law, there is nothing to keep them from doing so. A company faced with these alternatives would, however, think twice.

On Nov. 9, 1968, I joined the Olan Mills (photo) Club Plan and paid $3.95 for some photographs of my grandson, but have received no notice.
—Mrs. Frank Franson, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Sorry about that, says the company representative. He has contacted you by this time to arrange picture-perfect details.

Are teachers still deferred from the draft?
—A.H., Lincoln.

ACTION LINE: There is no longer a blanket deferment for teachers, says the State Selective Service Headquarters. However, teachers can be considered for deferment more readily if the local school board adequately establishes that the school system in the community has a shortage in the teacher area and, after a search, no qualified replacement is available.

In 1967, the determination of deferments in critical occupational areas was shifted to the National Security Council, which promptly abolished such a list of deferment areas and left it up to the local draft boards to determine on a community need basis—such as in the case of teachers. The state draft headquarters says the last thing it wants to do is place a community in a teacher shortage situation.

Steak House At Alma Destroyed By Flames

Alma (AP) — Fire which broke out in the kitchen area early Wednesday morning, virtually consumed the three-year-old Meyer Steak House and Lounge in downtown Alma.

Firemen from Orleans and Alma fought the blaze until nearly 5:30 a.m. before declaring it out and then maintained a watch on the smouldering ruins.

The one-story building located on a corner was virtually destroyed, only a few sections of walls and roof remaining after the blaze. Some smoke and water damage was sustained by a cleaning establishment next door.

Firemen said several employes and the owner, Bill Meyer, were still in the establishment when the flames broke out about 1:30 a.m. apparently in the kitchen ceiling. But the flames spread so fast they could not get to a phone to summon firemen and had to run across the street to a pay telephone to summon aid.

Dier Checks In At New Office

Omaha (AP) — Richard A. Dier of Kearney, Nebraska's new United States district attorney, checked in at his new office Wednesday and began familiarizing himself with the job. Dier succeeds Theodore L. Richling, who spent more than seven years in the post under Democratic administrations and who is remaining on the job until Feb. 1 at the request of Chief Federal District Judge Richard E. Robinson.

Dier was studying the intricacies of conducting a grand jury session Wednesday while Richling was secluded in the grand jury room for the last time as a government attorney.

"I am anxious to get back into private practice," Richling said. "But I want to turn over the office to my successor in the best possible condition. And it always helps if the old office holder sticks around awhile to explain some of the routine of the office."

Two assistants, Edward Fogarty and William Tighe, are keeping their positions.

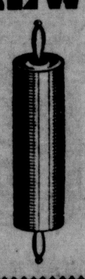

Fremont Library Grant Approved

Washington — Rep. Robert Denney, R-Neb., received word that the city of Fremont has obtained a construction grant from the federal government in the amount of $256,938 for a new public library building.

"With the $300,000 that the city of Fremont has put up for the building, Fremont should have one of the most advanced facilities to meet the educational needs in that area," Denney said. "The community is to be commended on the fine work done in getting this grant."

Planning Unit OKs New Sidewalk Concept For Community Unit Plan

Star Staff Writer

A new concept on sidewalks within a proposed community unit plan received backing Wednesday of City Planning Commission members despite the fact such sidewalks now are not permitted by city ordinance.

Following lengthy discussion, the commission approved the request by developer John Hoppe to construct and operate a community unit plan on property bounded by Nebraska Highway, Old Cheney Rd., 40th St., and 48th St.

Chauncey Barney, attorney for Hoppe, told Planning Commission members that the sidewalk concept is novel to the city and should not be rejected if the commission believes the concept has merits.

The ordinance states public sidewalks must follow the right-of-way of public streets.

The proposal calls for sidewalks instead to be built to the rear of each residential building on stretches of open space which lead to a community center.

Need Change

The independent sidewalk system within the "garden park-type" development would require an ordinance amendment which would permit alternative locations for sidewalks in approved community unit plans.

Robert Holsinger, city traffic engineer, told the commission he objected to the proposed extending of Rent-Worth Drive to Old Cheney Rd.

"The paving of the road serves no public benefit since it serves only one driveway," he said.

The fact that differences of opinion between developers and city department officials existed almost lead to deferring action on the plan.

Commission member Joyce David said during the public hearing on the plan that he could not see how the commission could vote when there are so many differences to be worked out.

Steve Crook, a commission member, came up with a recommendation to which the commission gave unanimous approval as it approved the community unit plan.

A thorn in working out the approved plan was the difference of opinion between Hoppe and Planning Director Douglas Brogden on how many dwelling units there should be in the plan.

Hoppe proposed a total of 508 units based on 124 single family lots, 60 duplex units, and 324 apartment units.

Brogden, who recommended approval of the plan in his report to the commission — providing certain conditions be worked out — said a density of 465 dwelling units should be allowed.

The two different figures came about because of different arithmetic formulas used to compute the number of allowable dwelling units within a defined area.

Hoppe used the formula which came into being when community unit plans were first being approved.

The city planning department has since revised its formula but had not formally presented it.

Based On Studies

Brogden said the second formula is based on studies made of normal subdivision procedures regarding all existing community unit plan areas.

The commission decided to go along with the number requested by Hoppe.

The commission also decided to defer action on a community unit plan for the vicinity of Cotner Blvd. and 62nd St. which was submitted by Bankers Life Insurance Co.

Members agreed that the plot plan be denied as presented, with action to be taken following submission of a new plan.

Sentiments were voiced that opening 63rd St. to the north would not be supported but that it should be vacated at a future date.

Julian Hopkins, an attorney appearing before the commission at last week's public hearing, indicated that it is now impossible for the firm to vacate the 30 feet of 63rd St. which it originally planned to do.

Brogden also noted that the fire department objects to proposed 24-foot-wide private roads as presented, but prefers the roads to be two feet wider.

Special Permit

The commission also approved the request for a special permit to construct the eight-story addition to Eastmont Manor at 6315 O St. and denied a change of zone request sought by Lewis Oil Co. at the intersection of Cornhusker Highway and Yolande Ave.

The oil company requested changing its H-2 Highway Commercial zoning to K light industry.

The commission agreed with the recommendation of Brogden that the zoning change would constitute spot zoning and that similar requests along Cornhusker Highway would permit redevelopment without requirement of a front yard.

The zoning change was being sought so that the firm could expand on the front yard. There are no requirements for a front yard on K Light Industry land.

Other action:

—Approved change of zone request from A-2 Single Family to H-2 Highway Commercial on property north of Adams, between 14th and Milton Sts., special permits for a trailer court and community unit plan and preliminary plat for the area, all requested by Karl Witt of Empire Construction Co.

—Approved proposed vacation of portion of X St. and north-south alley in vicinity of 63rd and X Sts.

—Approved preliminary plat for Briarhurst Addition, vicinity of Old Cheney Rd., Nebraska Highway, and 40th to 48th Sts.

—Deferred Cornhusker Industrial Addition, 29th and Cornhusker Highway.

East Side Baptist Discusses Plans For New Church

Members of the East Side Baptist Church congregation at its annual meeting discussed plans for construction of a new church and educational building on the 600 block of So. 84th St. to be started this spring.

The building along with the land will cost about $70,000, according to the Rev. Ron Adrian, who founded the church a little over a year ago.

The Rev. Mr. Adrian said that the educational building will be constructed first and will be used as a temporary church until the actual sanctuary is built.

During the year since the church was founded, the Rev. Mr. Adrian said, the congregation has grown rapidly and now has more than 100 members and a Sunday School enrollment of 191.

Elected to serve as the board of directors and deacons as well as on the building committee were Robert Clark, Lester Sipes, George Luehrs, Dale Greer and Glenn Stickney.

Officers will be elected from the group.

Kansas City Royals To Be 'Exciting, Hustling' Club

By JOHN HINES
Star Sports Writer

Kansas City's new American League expansion team will definitely be a hustling, aggressive club and give fans action for their money's worth in the Royals' big-league debut this year, KC officials promised Lincolnites at their goodwill caravan stop at the American Legion club Wednesday.

"Our players are going to have to hustle or they aren't going to be with me," manager Joe Gordon said. "When you come to Kansas City, you're going to see an exciting club, one that hustles. We scouted over 1,500 players and feel we have the best young ballplayers in the country."

Accompanying Gordon on this stop, the second of 19 in a five-state area, were broadcasters Buddy Blattner and Dennis Matthews; Rick Current, director of customer services; publicity director Bob Wirz, a native of Halsey, Neb.; administrative assistant John Schuerholz; coach Harry Dunlop, a catcher for the Lincoln Chiefs from 1955-57; minor league batting instructor Tommy Henrich and players Roger Nelson, Bob Oliver and Dennis Paepke.

Kansas City has five full-time working agreements and one partial tie-in for its farm system with clubs in Omaha of the American Association; Elmira, N.Y. of the Eastern League (shared with San Diego); High Point-Thomasville, N.C., of the Carolina League; Winnipeg, Canada, of the Northern League; Corning, N.Y. of the New York-Pennsylvania League and Kingsport, Tenn., of the Appalachian League.

Mel Harder and Jo Jo White are other coaches. Employing a method of selecting young players, the Royals have already established a club in the Florida Instructional League and have signed 32 of the original 56 players they drafted in June, 1968.

There are 21 full-time scouts in the system and Schuerholz said "We had reports of every player who played baseball in 1968 when we went to the expansion draft meeting in Boston."

Among the more familiar names of established big-leaguers on the 40-man major league roster are pitchers Wally Bunker, Galen Cisco, Moe Drabowsky and Dave Morehead; infielders Jerry Adair, Joe Foy and Paul Schaal and outfielders Ed Kirkpatrick and Steve Whitaker.

But it's basically the other players, now without extensive major league experience, who'll form the backbone in years to come of a franchise that owner Ewing Kauffman has vowed will never leave Kansas City. Typical are Nelson, Oliver, and Paepke.

Nelson was 4-3 for Baltimore last season, operating as a starter the last six weeks. He was the Royals' first expansion choice. One of his victories was a 2-1 decision over Denny McLain, who was then trying for his 32nd victory.

Oliver, a second-round expansion choice, is a right-handed power hitting first baseman-outfielder who hit .297 with 20 homers and 93 RBIs for Denver in the Pacific Coast League last season, while Paepke, given a chance to become the Royals' regular catcher, came from the California Angels in a trade after hitting .289 with El Paso.

"We'll have about 50 players we'll take to spring training (opening February 21 in Fort Myers, Fla.)," Gordon says. "How good are they? I won't know until then, when we'll get 25 to take back north with us."

Kansas City's opening date is at home April 8 against Minnesota. Ticket information about attractive sales programs offered can be obtained by writing Box 1969, Kansas City, Mo., 64141. Lincoln station KLIN will be a radio affiliate for the Royals.

Pittsburgh manager Larry Shepard, along with Nebraska University coach Tony Sharpe, were also in attendance. Before getting realistic, Gordon opened his remarks by looking over at Shepard and saying, "Larry was just telling me he's glad he's not in our division. We'd clean his plow."

FOSTER WINS QUICKLY

...De Paula First-Round TKO Victim

New York (AP) — Bob Foster dropped Frankie De Paula three times for a technical knockout victory in 2:17 of the first round Wednesday night in the first defense of his world light heavyweight boxing title.

Referee Johnny Lo Bianco stopped the bout quickly under the three-knockdown rule in New York State which requires a fight to be stopped after three knockdowns in one round.

Foster had been down from more of a slip than a punch in the early seconds but came up swinging with his talented left hook to make short work of the 5-1 underdog.

The Jersey City challenger, who drew most of the people who almost filled Madison Square Garden, was in over his head against Foster, who had an advantage of seven inches in height and nine inches in reach.

The big delegation from across the Hudson River contributed to an attendance of 16,129 and a gross gate of $189,992.

Foster was scoring with a jab when De Paula closed in and threw a left hand to the body. The champ slipped down but it was ruled a knockdown by the referee, who counted off the automatic eight count.

Foster threw two solid left hooks and followed with a left uppercut that dropped De Paula. Although he bounced up quickly at one or two, the count again went to the automatic eight.

Foster shook De Paula again with a hook and crossed with a right before De Paula went down again for another eight count.

When Foster dropped a right to the head and Frankie boy dropped again, Referee Lo Bianco followed the rule book and ended the uneven contest.

It was only the second time a world light heavyweight title fight had ended in one round. The other was a knockout scored by the late Gus Lesnevich over Billy Fox in 1:58 of the first round back in 1948.

Joe Namath, who led the underdog New York Jets to victory in the Super Bowl, was a ringside rooter for De Paula and drew a tremendous ovation when he climbed into the ring.

The quick end was a tremendous letdown to the Jersey crowd that had swarmed over the bridge and through the tunnels in hopes of seeing their big puncher score an upset. He had moved into the title shot after a losing fight with Dick Tiger in which each man was down twice. Foster had won the title from the same Tiger last May 24 on a fourth round knockout.

Foster, unusually light at 171½ pounds, barely had a chance to get warmed up before he was down from what many ringsiders thought was a combination of a slip and a De Paula punch.

Stung by this unexpected turn of events, the 30-year-old champ from Washington finished off the 173-pound Jersey City challenger with the greatest of ease. It was strictly no contest.

Patrons had been advised to come early but the 9:30 p.m. EST start and the quick ending caught some of them still in the aisles.

It was Foster's 13th straight victory, 12 by knockouts, bringing his career record to 34-4. It was the second time the stocky De Paula had been stopped and his record now reads 18-7-3.

Foster towered over Frankie, 6-foot-3½ to 5-8½ in a Mutt and Jeff match, and had 79 inches in reach to 70 by De Paula.

The light heavy champ probably will move on to the heavyweight class after this quickie.

★ ★ ★ De Paula Didn't Get Bob's Best

New York (AP) — "I really didn't hit him with my best punches," said light heavyweight champion Bob Foster after he stopped a 5-1 underdog Frankie De Paula on the three-knockdown rule in the first round of their title fight at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

The tall, skinny champion, who bent over from his 6-foot-3½ height so he could level his punches at his 5-8½ opponent, was on the floor first from a left to the body before he dropped the challenger.

"It was a slip," said Foster. It looked like that to most observers in the press box.

"I told the referee that it was a slip and I got mad," said Foster.

The champion said most of his punches "were glancing blows. I couldn't get any leverage on him."

Asked what was his best punch, Foster said "it was a right uppercut before the first knockdown. I set him up with a jab and the right uppercut and knocked him down with a hook and a right. After that I knew I had him.

"He was concentrating on getting away from my jab so I found him open for the hooks.

Both fighters were interviewed in a large room off the dressing rooms.

Foster said the hooks set up De Paula for the other two knockdowns.

De Paula said he wasn't really hurt and that the three-knock-down rule should be waived for title fights.

"I don't agree," said Foster. "That's when a guy gets hurt. You can never tell when it happens. As the champion, I should be against that rule but I'm not.

De Paula claimed "my feet went out from under me" after the three knockdowns.

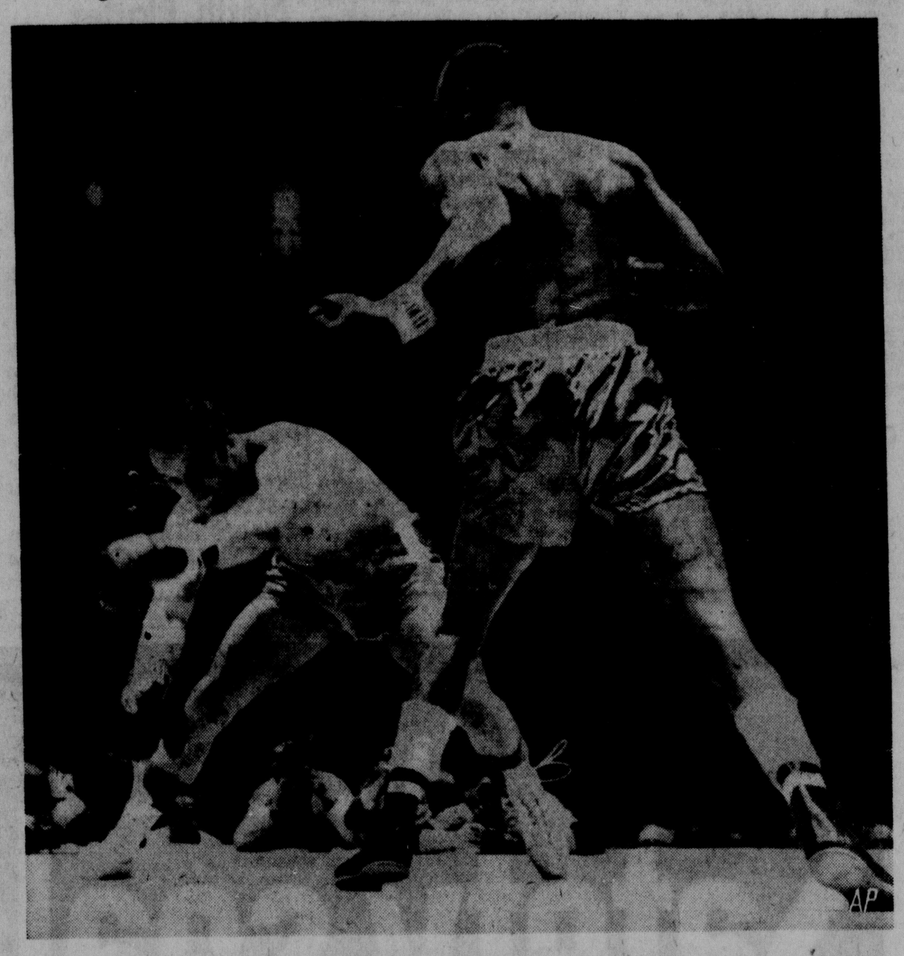

"It wasn't the punches," he said. "They were more of a slip. I've taken harder punches."

He said he wasn't hurt by the punches.

De Paula didn't change his moving style for Foster. "I always go in," he said. "That's my style."

And that's how he went out, although Frankie got some whispered advice from Joe Namath, quarterback of the New York Jets, who stunned the Baltimore Colts in pro football's Super Bowl.

"We were underdogs, too," Namath told De Paula before the fight, but De Paula didn't have as much success.

Omaha Baseball Club In Revived AAA Loop

. . . AMERICAN ASSOCIATION RETURNING

Denver, Colo. (AP) — The American Association was revived and the Pacific Coast League was reorganized in a marathon meeting of triple-A baseball executives that ended Wednesday.

The meeting, which lasted more than 15 hours, produced agreement to add two teams to the PCL and release four others to reform the American Association, which has not operated since 1962.

Eugene, Ore., and Tucson, Ariz., will be added to the Pacific Coast League, replacing Seattle and San Diego, which now have major league franchises.

Leaving the PCL will be Denver, Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Indianapolis. They will join Omaha and Des Moines to reform the American Association.

The maneuvering will leave the PCL with eight teams with Eugene and Tucson in the south PCL division will be Hawaii and Phoenix. In the northern division will be Vancouver, Spokane, Tacoma and Portland. A championship playoff will be held between divisional winners.

The six-member AA will expand to eight teams in 1970.

The PCL decided on a 146-game schedule starting April 11 and ending Sept. 1, with Tucson permitted to start one day early. The executives also picked Bobby Adams of Tacoma, Jack Quinn of Hawaii and W. D. Rosy Ryan of Phoenix as members of its executive committee.

The American Association leaders decided on a 140-game schedule starting April 18 and ending Sept. 1 but rejected a slate of specific dates.

There will be no playoffs, but an attempt will be made to revive the junior world series, matching the AA and International League champions, the third AAA league. The International League, in 1968 included Toledo and Columbus, Ohio; Rochester, Syracuse and Buffalo in New York; Jacksonville, Fla.; Richmond, Va., and Louisville, Ky.

Another American Association meeting was set for next week in Indianapolis, probably on Jan. 29, to act on the schedule, elect a president, update the constitution and bylaws and consider other operating procedures.

The executives voted earlier to take the Seattle indemnity case to commissioner William Eckert for arbitration. The same would apply to San Diego if negotiation is unsuccessful.

The PCL is asking $1.1 million for loss of the two teams to the major leagues, but the offers so far have been consistently below that. PCL president Bill McKechnie said Seattle first made an offer of $30,000 and later raised it by an unspecified amount. San Diego has made no proposal, he said.

When Los Angeles and San Francisco joined the National League, the PCL received $450,000 for each city.

Eckert sent a telegram to the two leagues instructing them to proceed with their realignment plans without prejudice to the impending arbitration.

Court Dismisses Speeding Charge On Gale Sayers

Chicago (AP) — Gale Sayers, star halfback of the Chicago Bears, had a speeding charge dismissed in Traffic Court Wednesday because he "acted like a gentleman" when ticketed.

Sayers, mending from knee surgery resulting from a National Football League game injury last fall, was charged with driving 46 miles an hour in a 30-mile zone.

The arresting officer said the great running back was very polite when arrested.

Magistrate Rudolph Janega told Sayers: "I'll give you the benefit of the doubt, you acted like a gentleman." Janega said it appeared Sayers was just keeping up with traffic.

Sayers told reporters he was lifting weights and working out to keep in shape for next season when he hopes to be as elusive as before his knee injury.

Flyweight Champion To Fly To Title Bout

The title match will take place in the Mexican capital Feb. 23.

Wesleyan Is Favored Against Seward Squad

. . . CONCORDIA 0-14 ON YEAR

By TOM HENDERSON
Star Sports Writer

Concordia's basketball team has never beaten a Nebraska Wesleyan club coached by Irv Peterson and it isn't likely the Bulldogs will change that record tonight when Peterson's Plainsmen visit Seward for a 7:30 p.m. encounter between the two schools.

Concordia has yet to win, while suffering 14 straight losses this season, while Nebraska Wesleyan, which also owns a 27-2 series record edge over the Bulldogs, is 9-8 on the year, despite a schedule which has included such teams as the nation's fourth-ranked club, Ashland, Ohio and Chicago Loyola.

Wesleyan has beaten three of its five games against the two clubs' common opponents, while losing by a narrower margin than did Concordia against Concordia, Ill.

The Bulldogs forced Hastings into an overtime before falling, 80-74, in the first game of the season, while the Plainsmen lost to the Broncs, 87-80, in regulation play.

But Wesleyan came back to whip Hastings, 87-83, less than two weeks later and Concordia has yet to prove it can win against the Broncos.

Senior Wesleyan guard Ken Ahl of Louisville needs only 183 points to become the greatest point producer in the school's history.

To do it, he must average 20.3 points per game over the last nine games of the season. He is currently averaging 22.4 despite a bout with the flu during the Plainsmen's 4,000-mile tour of the East.

Ahl will also be trying to stretch his string of 18 consecutive free throws. He is among the nation's leaders in free throw percentage and had a string of 27 straight earlier this season.

Sophomore forward John Brown, who ranks in the top ten among the nation's field goal shooters, has a 20.5 average going into tonight's game, while senior center Bob Hahn now has 1,025 points during his career, placing him eighth on Wesleyan's all-time chart.

Tom Raabe has been Concordia's most consistent scorer this season. Raabe scored 18 points in the Bulldogs' 87-76 loss to Peru Tuesday night.

Raabe currently stands 39th in scoring on the NAIA list with 313 points for a 24.1 average.

Bulldog coach Stan Brassie also has Jan Lohmeyer, who at guard along with Raabe, make the Concordia guards "as good as anybody's," according to Brassie.

He blames Concordia's 0-14 record on a lack of rebounding power rather than scoring inability.

Hahn and reserve guard Rick Boals will be playing their last game of the year for Wesleyan, having been declared ineligible for the second semester.

Joseph Dey Named Golf Commissioner

. . . COMPLETE CONTROL OF PROS

New York (AP) — Joseph C. Dey Jr., executive director of the United States Golf Association since 1934, was named the commissioner of pro golf Wednesday.

The announcement was made by J. Paul Austin of Atlanta, chairman of the newly constituted Tournament Policy Board. The board was brought into being following the Dec. 13, 1968 compromise between the rebellious tournament players and the Professional Golfers' Association.

Austin said that Dey would have complete control of everything pertaining to the golf tour, expected to have prizes worth $5,000,000 in 1969 under policies outlined by the tournament board.

Actual conduct of the tour, however, will continue under the direction of the field staff of which Jack Tuthill is the director.

Austin added that Dey had agreed to terms for five years and that offices would be maintained both in New York City and at the PGA headquarters in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla.

Dey is internationally known in the golf world and has worked closely with the Royal & Ancient Club of St. Andrews, Scotland, in coordinating the rules of golf which prevail throughout the world. In addition to his duties in the USGA, Dey also has been secretary of the World Amateur Golf Council involving 55 countries in which the sport is played.

Austun said that the exact date of Dey switch from the amateur to the professional side of the sport had not been determined. The USGA holds its annual meeting in New York this coming weekend.

JOSEPH DEY JR.

The new Tournament Players Division of the PGA came into being late last year after the tourney players broke away from the PGA and formed their organization, the American Professional Golfers. When the Dec. 13 compromise was reached, it was agreed that the APG would fold.

The board was chosen to set the broad policy of the players under the umbrella of the PGA.

Four members of the board are players. They are Gardner Dickinson Jr., Billy Casper Jr., Dan Sikes Jr. and Jack Nicklaus. Three elected officials of the PGA also are on the board. They are Leo Fraser, president; Warren Orlick, secretary, and William Clarke, treasurer.

Briar Cliff Tips Doane By 88-83

Sioux City, Iowa (AP) — Briar Cliff College scored eight straight points at the beginning of the second half here Wednesday night and went on to beat Doane College of Nebraska 88-83 in a basketball contest.

Doane had led 42-35 at intermission. The lead changed hands 11 times and the score was tied seven times in the second half before Briar Cliff went ahead 78-77 on a jumper by Jim Hinrich with 4:58 left in the game.

Free throws were a big item with Briar Cliff hitting 30 of 44, while Doane got 17 of only 22 chances.

Staub Swapped To Montreal

. . . ASTROS ACQUIRE DONN CLENDENON, JESUS ALOU

Houston, Tex. (AP) — The Houston Astros gave up their top hitter Wednesday by trading outfielder Rusty Staub to the new Montreal club in the National League for first baseman Donn Clendenon and outfielder Jesus Alou.

Staub, former New Orleans schoolboy star who became Houston's first big bonus signee in 1961, led the Astros with a .291 average last season. In 1967, he finished with a .333 after having led the NL in batting a good portion of the season.

"This has been my toughest decision since I have been in baseball," said Astro general manager Spec Richardson. "Rusty is a great ball player and we hate to lose him but manager Harry Walker and others on the staff agree in our feeling that the trade will help the club. We now feel we have a chance to challenge for our divisional championship."

Montreal obtained both Clendenon and Alou in the recent NL expansion draft, Clendenon from the Pittsburgh Pirates and Alou from the San Francisco Giants.

Alou hit .263 with the Giants while Clendenon hit .257 his last season for the Pirates.

Walker also attended a news conference and said he believes Houston now has "its strongest team in history."

"We've added speed, power, and defense but have lost one of the finest hitters in baseball," Walker said. "We have balanced our righthanded hitting with our lefthanded hitting and have filled one of our outfield spots."

RUSTY STAUB

No cash was involved in the trade.

Richardson said he had been unable to locate Staub to advise him of the action.

"I actually don't know where he is," Richardson said. "But I sent him a telegram and had a special copy of it left at his Houston home."

One club official said there was some indication Staub is in the Los Angeles area.

Roy Hofheinz, owner of the Astros, said he regretted giving up the popular redhead but said he, too, believes Houston is closer now to having a winning ball club than ever before.

"This is the kind of trade that required unanimity and I'm pleased that we had it," Hofheinz said.

Richardson said that Alou, Curt Blefary and Jimmy Wynn will give Houston a young outfield averaging less than 25 years.

Walker listed his new probable starting lineup as Alou in right, Joe Morgan at second, Wynn in center, Blefary in left, Clendenon at first, Doug Rader at third, Denis Menke at short, and John Edwards catching.

He said Norm Miller also would be available for right field, Bob Watson for left field and Hector Torres for shortstop.

"That gives us 11 good ball players with Keen competition at most of the positions," he said. "All are capable of hitting the ball out of any park in the league and are capable of stealing bases.

Pension Dispute Reaches Impasse; Players To Meet

New York (AP) — The Major League Baseball Players Association said Wednesday it had reached an impasse with club owners over increased pension benefits and has called a special meeting of the players for Monday, Feb. 3, in New York.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the association, said in a prepared statement that each of the 24 major league teams will have five or six players at the meeting and that the group will decide upon what action is to be taken.

The threat of a strike has increased since last week when the players overwhelmingly rejected the owners' offer to increase their pension fund by a million dollars. The vote was 461 to 6.

Miller said that at a meeting last Monday, the owners rejected each of the players' suggestions. He added that big league clubs have begun a national campaign to undermine the association and that "if ever there was an industry hell bent on its own destruction it is, unfortunately, that of the great national pastime."

Baltimore's Unitas Says No Arm Surgery Ahead

Baltimore (AP) — John Unitas, quarterback of the Baltimore Colts, says there are no immediate plans for surgery on his tender right elbow.

The National Football League passing great made that clear before sailing Wednesday for a two week stay in Jamaica with his wife, Dorothy.

In Jamaica, he plans "some fishing and a lot of lying around."

"I don't plan to pick up a football until sometime in March," Unitas said.

"Then I'll throw the ball a little, and if any swelling or undue pain results I'll go have another X-Ray. They then can decide what to do, but right now there are no plans for an operation."

Unitas played most of the second half of the Super Bowl, where the NFL charges were upset 16-7 by the New York Jets of the American Football League.

The day after the game, Coach Don Shula said he wanted Unitas to be looked at "very soon, by the best people in the world, and a decision made on whether he will require surgery."

All sorts of rumors grew out of that statement, but Unitas and the Colts are putting them to rest.

"I can't ever remember when damage of this nature was ever rectified by surgery," Harry Hulmes, Colt general manager, said of Unitas' torn muscle suffered last Sept. 7 in an exhibition against Dallas.

A Baltimore physical therapist who has been working on Unitas' arm took a similar tack.

"I don't see how they could even be thinking of an operation," he said.

"If there were bone chips, or spurs, or something like that it would be understandable, but there just isn't anything to cut. Total rest now should bring the arm back."

Sifford Leading

Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. (AP) —Charles Sifford, winner of the Los Angeles Open, leads all pros in earnings so far this year, the Professional Golfers Association reported Wednesday.

Sifford has pocketed $20,000.

Second, with $14,408, is Bruce Devlin.

Next in order were: Miller Barber, $14,030; Harold Henning, $12,800; Dick Lotz, $10,833; Billy Casper, $6,314; Don Whitt, $5,700; Arnold Palmer, $5,592; Dave Hill, $4,985, and Bert Yancey, $4,787.

Namath Hints Of Retirement

. . . OFFERS TEMPTING

New York (AP) — Joe Namath of the New York Jets continued Wednesday to create crowds wherever he goes and an aura of mystery wherever he speaks — this time hinting that an attractive and lucrative business offer might force him to retire from pro football.

The crowds, highly vocal and mostly feminine, descended on Namath at a City Hall tribute to the Jets for winning the Super Bowl and reconvened at a midtown restaurant where Namath was awarded a car by a national magazine for his role in the 16-7 upset of Baltimore.

The aura of mystery was thrown over the proceedings by Namath himself as he talked about the number of business offers — many in the show business field — he had received since the Super Bowl triumph.

"Jimmy Brown got out while he was still healthy," said Namath, who has undergone a series of operations on his still ailing knees. "You want to make it while you're on top — before you get destroyed."

But he also added:

"I'm very happy with my life as it is right now."

Namath obviously realizes that this is his greatest opportunity to capitalize both on his flamboyant and controversial image as well as the fame that has been riding with him since the Jets beat the Colts.

He has been moving in show business circles recently, appearing on the late-night talk shows and was scheduled to tape an Ed Sullivan Show segment later in the day. It has also been apparent recently that he worries about his ailing legs and their ability to withstand the punishment they must in the sport in which he is making his living

Namath currently has several business ventures going, a New York night spot and a string of drive-in restaurants, and said he would evaluate the newest offers after returning from a USO-sponsored Far East tour of military installations on which he is leaving Thursday.

Whether any of the offers is attractive enough or lucrative enough to force him to get out of pro football remains a question mark but he did point to Brown, the star running back who left the Cleveland Browns at the peak of his football career for a movie career.

The attraction Namath has become was evident in the two scenes played in his — and the Jets — honor Wednesday.

A crowd of some 5,000 turned out at City Hall, interrupted Mayor Lindsay when he tried to speak and chanted:

"Namath for mayor."

Then Namath and the Jets moved on to the restaurant where Namath got the car. Another screeching mob of teenage girls surrounded him as he posed with the car out on the street.

The editor of the magazine awarding Namath the car was clawed on the cheek by one over-enthusiastic autograph seeker, but Namath avoided them as easily as he did Colt tacklers in the Super Bowl.

North Platter Rolls 300 Game

North Platte (AP) — A perfect 300 game was rolled here Wednesday night for the first time in more than 50 years of league bowling in North Platte.

Hitting the perfect mark was Dean Warwick, 24, of North Platte.

The six-year veteran of league competition also hit a high series of 711 for North Platte competition this season.

Warwick was rolling for Reece's Body Shop team at the Cedar Bowl lanes.

He carried a 193 average in three nights a week of league bowling.

Creighton Will Host N. Illinois

Omaha (UPI) — Creighton, struggling through a 6-10 season but still with hopes of finishing above .500 for the year, resumes basketball action Monday against Northern Illinois University in a game scheduled for the Boys Town Fieldhouse. Tip-off will be at 8 p.m.

Coach Red McManus' Bluejays have yet to show the consistency needed to mature pre-season hopes of a big winner.

Bob Portman 6-5 forward, and Wally Anderzunas, 6-7½ cornerman who has recently moved into a pivot spot, have played to expectations. Portman is averaging 26.1 points and 11.1 rebounds; Anderzunas, 18.3 points and 10.6 rebounds. Anderzunas, in particular, has looked strong in recent games.

McManus, however, has been forced to regroup his offense and with little practice time to do it. Anticipated strength at the pivot — vital in Red's double-post attack — has not materialized. To bolster forces inside, Anderzunas has been moved into a center spot along with 6-7 senior Steve Jansa.

Another switch has seen more frequent use of a double-guard offense with Dave Hickey, Jack Ketterer and Mike Caruso moving in and out of the lineup.

Northern Illinois holds wins over Bowling Green (75-69), Iowa State (78-65), Western Michigan (87-80) and Marshall (75-70) in compiling a 9-6 record. The Huskies will play at San Diego State and Northern Arizona before meeting Creighton.

Bindas Dies Of Leukemia

Hastings (AP) — Steve P. Bindas, 44, Highland Park, Ill., who won wide recognition as a golf instructor at Hastings High School between 1949 and 1965, died Tuesday after an illness of a year. His death was attributed to leukemia.

Bindas was a member of the Deerfield-Highland Park school faculty. Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in Highland Park.

During his 16 years as coordinator of physical education in Hastings, Bindas coached five state champion golf squads, six Big Ten Conference Champion squads and four Mid-East Conference champion squads. He also coached six Big Ten Individual champions and sent numerous entries to the United States Golf Association and Junior Chamber of Commerce tournaments. He also served as gold professional at Meadowbrook Country Club for a time.

He was president of the Nebraska Association of Health in 1964 and 1965 and chairman of the central district of the national association.

He is survived by his widow, Roberta; a son, Peter, and a daughter, Sarah; all of Highland Park.

Sangster-Cox Duo Top-Seeded In Omaha Tennis

Omaha (UPI) — Mike Sangster and Mark Cox, both British Davis Cup team members, were seeded first among foreign players in doubles competition in the Omaha International Indoor Tennis Championships.

The no. 1 domestic seed was given to Cliff Richey and Tom Edlefsen.

Doubles play will start Monday, the second day of the tournament. Two first round matches will be played Monday and two on Tuesday.

Pairings for the first round matches:

Sangster-Cox vs. Gulyas-Franulovic; El Shaefei-Brown vs. Graebner-Fritzbiggons; Richey-Edlefsen vs. Kukal-Kodes; McManus-McKinley vs. Ulrich-Koch.

Hunger In U.S. Verified

© New York Times Service

Washington — The phenomenon of chronic hunger and malnutrition in a land fat with agricultural surpluses was officially verified for the first time Wednesday in a government medical survey.

Preliminary findings of an examination of 12,000 Americans selected at random in low income areas of Texas, Louisiana, New York and Kentucky showed an "alarming prevalance" of diseases commonly associated with undernourishment.

They also disclosed the presence of exotic diseases that were thought to exist only among the ill-fed peoples of backward countries, and a return of endemic goiter, a disease that was virtually eradicated in this country 30 years ago.

A Senate committee listened in shocked silence as Dr. Arnold E. Schaefer of the Public Health Service reported that the nutritional level of the people examined was as low as the level found in similar surveys in Central America.

The survey made no attempt to go into the reasons why people were hungry. When Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., asked Schaefer if he could relate the problems of malnutrition to low income levels, Schaefer replied: "Honestly we cannot at this point."

But he suggested during his testimony that ignorance of diet was a major factor. Other observers have noted as causes a good deal of functional illiteracy, especially in the rural South, the dearth of county welfare officers and nurses, and the difficulty of getting an impoverished and apathetic population to respond to the rigid rules of local bureaucrats administering the food programs.

Extremists Abuse Cardinal At Christian Unity Service

London (AP) — Bible-waving Protestant extremists shouted disrupting defiance and abuse Wednesday night during an appearance of John Cardinal Heenan in the pulpit of the Church of England's St. Paul's Cathedral.

Cardinal Heenan, 63, archbishop of Westminster and leader of Britain's Roman Catholics, was held speechless for nearly 10 minutes as the demonstrators made their loud interruptions at the service of prayer for Christian unity.

Cries of "no popery here" rose when the cardinal and the Anglican primate, Dr. Michael Ramsey, archbishop of Canterbury, entered the church together.

Many of the demonstrators were supporters of the Northern Ireland Protestant extremist leader, the Rev. Ian Paisley.

He in turn was nearly mobbed by furious counterdemonstrators outside the cathedral, the great 17th century masterpiece of Sir Christopher Wren. Police formed a human shield around the Rev. Mr. Paisley to get him through an egg-throwing crowd. Some eggs hit him.

When ushers restored quiet inside the church, Cardinal Heenan raised a laugh and a wave of applause by commenting, "This demonstration shows the need for the ecumenical movement."

"Of course," he added, "I realize these are not members of your usual congregation."

The service in Anglican St. Paul's was part of a Week of Prayer for Christian Unity during which hundreds of clergy have swapped pulpits.

HUAC Is Getting Major Liberal Infusion

© New York Times Service

Washington — The House Un-American Activities Committee, until now a bastion of right-wing conservatism, is getting a major liberal infusion, including its first Negro member in history.

Named to the nine-member committee this week were four moderate-to-liberal Democrats:

—Louis Stokes of Ohio, a Negro freshman, the brother of Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes.

—Claude Pepper, a Florida liberal who attributed his defeat for re-election to the Senate in 1950 to right-wing accusations that he had associated with Communists.

—L. Richardson Preyer, a North Carolina moderate-to-liberal named to the federal bench in 1961 by President Kennedy and subsequently defeated in his bid for governor in 1964.

—Edwin W. Edwards of Louisiana, generally regarded as a moderate on most issues aside from civil rights.

While outnumbered by the other more conservative members of the committee, the newcomers are expected to temper the panel's right-wing image and its reputation for witch hunting.

House liberals have frequently sought to abolish the committee. Some of the more militant liberals are expected to try again within the next few weeks, but are certain to fail.

Less militant liberals, convinced that the House would not abolish the committee, helped engineer the change in HUAC, as it is generally called by friend and foe alike.

The House Democratic leadership,too, embarrassed in recent years by the committee's circus-like probes into left-wing causes, also insisted on the major shift.

Hardin Swears In Two Assistants

From Press Reports

Washington — Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin Wednesday installed two top-level assistants promptly after the Senate confirmed their nominations.

Hardin himself officially became head of the Agriculture Department early Wednesday.

Sworn in were the agency's new undersecretary, J. Phil Campbell, former Georgia agriculture commissioner, and assistant secretary Clarence D. Palmby.

Hardin administered their oaths only hours after their nominations had cleared the Senate without opposition.

"If we seem to be rushing things a bit, we are. If there was ever a time in my life I felt I needed help, this is it," Hardin said.

The former chancellor of the University of Nebraska said that improvement of rural living will be one of his main objectives during the Nixon administration.

"So long as returns for capital and labor invested in agriculture are below those of the American economy generally, one of our foremost concerns of the department must be farmers' income," Hardin stated.

Belgian Socialist Dies Before Vote

Liege, Belgium (AP) — Vice Premier Joseph Merlot died in a Liege hospital. He had been recovering from injuries suffered in an automobile accident Jan. 9, but suffered a massive heart attack.

Merlot, 56, was the Socialist leader in Liege. His death may weaken the government, a coalition of Socialists and Christian Democrats, on the eve of voting in parliament on important constitutional changes for which the government needs a two-thirds majority.

Output To Double

New York (UPI) —Riegel Textile Corp. says its LaFrance division will double output of simulated fur fabrics at once.

Belker In Charge Of Arrangements For Demo Dinner

Loren Belker, Lancaster County Democratic chairman, has been appointed arrangements chairman for the 1969 Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner to be held May 10 at Pershing Auditorium.

State Chairman John C. Mitchell of Omaha will be general dinner chairman and National Committeeman J. J. Exon of Lincoln will be honorary chairman.

A nationally-known Democrat, who will be announced later, will be the featured speaker.

Nixon Administration To Retain Gold Price

© New York Times Service

Washington — Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy Wednesday ruled out any change in the long-established monetary price of gold of $35 an ounce.

Kennedy, who had declined to speak specificly on the point before the new administration took office, made his position clear only about eight hours after he was sworn into office.

In a brief prepared statement, issued in connection with announcement of the appointment of two Treasury undersecretaries, Kennedy said:

"It will be our purpose to maintain a strong dollar both at home and abroad. We will not seek an answer to our problems by a change in the monetary price of gold. We see no need or reason for such action.

"Calm study in cooperation with our friends — not unilateral actions or disruptive changes in the vital role of the dollar and gold — must remain the foundation of real reform and progress in the international financial system."

Ron Ziegler, the White House press secretary, said the statement had been seen in advance by President Nixon.

Walker Is Named To No. 2 Position In U.S. Treasury

Washington (AP) — President Nixon Wednesday named Dr. Charls E. Walker, executive vice president of the American Bankers Association, to become undersecretary of the Treasury.

Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy announced the selection of Walker as his No. 2 man and of Paul A. Volcker to be undersecretary for monetery affairs.

Walker has been executive vice president and manager of the bankers association for eight years. He lives in Riverside, Conn.

Volcker is a vice president and director of forward planning for the Chase Manhattan Bank. He is from Montclair, N.J.

Red Underwear May Shock You

Moscow (UPI) — The Soviet Union has developed special suits of "electrical fabric" for use in the subzero weather of Siberia, the newspaper Sovyetskaya Rossiya reported.

The fabric is heated by a 12-volt power supply source.

Prostrate Soldier Slain By Viet Cong Guerrilla

Ca Mau, Vietnam (AP) — Bullets thudded into the back of the South Vietnamese soldier as he sprawled face down on the ground.

His blood-flecked shirt rode up his back with the impact. He twitched spasmodically and died...

It was death, Viet Cong style, in the Mekong Delta. The executioner was a Viet Cong soldier in floppy hat and baggic tunic with an AK4 automatic rifle pressed hard to his shoulder.

The scene came from a roll of raw 16mm black and white movie film, straight from the camera and uncut, captured recently in the U Minh Forst, on the Gulf of Siam southwest of Saigon.

The film-laden camera was among enemy material seized when government troops overran the Viet Cong information center for delta operations last month.

The brutal few seconds depicting the death of the Vietnamese soldier, who had apparently fled from his truck during a Viet Cong ambush, would obviously never have been included in any of the propaganda movies the enemy distributes around the world.

The sequence was part of about 300 feet of film showing the ambush of a government truck convoy in a village somewhere in the delta, probably last summer.

Capitalization Plan Readied By Gateway

A proposal to increase Gateway Bank's capitalization through the sale of additional stock, a stock dividend and the issuance of capital notes was discussed by bank officials and stockholders at the annual meeting Wednesday.

Officials anticipate that a special meeting of shareholders will be called during February to vote on the proposed change.

Burnham Yates, president of the bank, said that increased capitalization is desirable in order to maintain the balance between capital funds and assets and liability totals.

According to bank officials, 1968 was "a successful operating year for the bank."

Net earnings were $126,619 as compared with $89,274 in 1967. After deduction for transfer to loan and dividend reserves, $88,000 was added to capital accounts.

Total capital funds at the end of the year were $695,954. Deposits were $11,134,000 compared to $8,493,000 in 1967. Loans at year's end were $5,701,000 as compared with $4,940,000 a year ago.

Total assets were $12,155,000 — up from the $9,311,500 reported at the end of 1967.

Directors re-elected at the meeting were James N. Ackerman, Karl Dickinson, Robert C. Guenzel, Harry Haynie, John T. McGreer, Jr., Max E. Roper, Max Schneider and Yates.

At the directors' meeting following, officer re-elected were Yates, president; Dickinson, executive vice president; Merlyn Minderman and Schneider, vice presidents; Joseph J. Essay, cashier, and James A. Kruger and Richard L. Laird, assistant cashiers.

Didn't Hannibal Use Elephants Against Rome?

Rome (AP) — The symbol of civic cleanliness in Paris, the City of Light, is the cat.

And now the Eternal City has reached into the animal kingdom for a cleanup symbol of its own but on the grand scale.

Rome's new advertising, sloganeering mascot of the city's 6,000 garbagemen is a mythical but eternally clean elephant named Quirino, meaning Roman. He'll appeal in signs, leaflets, etc., to keep Rome clean.

Talks With GSA Begin On Base Housing

Lincoln Housing Authority representatives and Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf met with General Services Administration (GSA) representatives in Kansas City, Mo., Wednesday to begin negotiations on acquiring the housing units at the old Lincoln airbase.

The meeting was an exploratory discussion to see what steps should be taken in the matter.

Representing the Housing Authority were Kenneth King and James Mahoney.

King said the authority was asked to submit an offer in writing to the GSA. The offer will then be submitted to Washington, D.C. from GSA's Kansas City office.

King said Wednesday he did not know how long it would take for the authority to arrive at an offer or when a reply would be received after the offer is submitted.

Nixons Keep White House Kitchen Staff

Washington (AP) — There was a smooth transition in the White House kitchen — the Nixons have decided to keep on the Johnsons' Swiss-born chef Henry Haller and Texas housekeeper Mary Kaltman.

A spokesman said President and Mrs. Nixon plan no changes in these two key jobs.

Haller, an international chef, was lured from a lucrative job in a New York hotel by the Johnsons to replace French chef Rene Verdon in 1966. Verdon had been installed by the former first lady, Jacqueline Kennedy.

Mrs. Kaltman was brought to the White House by the Johnsons late in 1968 "to coordinate purchasing in the interest of economy" in the White House kitchens. Mrs. Kaltman had been director of foods at the Driskill Hotel in Austin, Tex.

She replaced another Kennedy appointee, Miss Anne Lincoln, who resigned and later wrote a book about her White House experiences.

The Nixons also have a kitchen in their second-floor family quarters, which will be presided over by a Castillian couple, Manolo and Fina Sanchez, who have been with them for a number of years and moved into the White House with the Nixon family.

Mrs. Nixon had her first conference with Mrs. Kaltman and apparently left no doubt that Mrs. Kaltman will be staying on along with Haller.

Market Stages Minor Advance

New York (AP) — A somewhat more confident spirit was displayed on Wall Street Wednesday as the stock market staged its first advance of the Nixon inaugural week.

The advance was a minor one, and it was accomplished on moderate volume. Turnover was 11.48 million shares compared with 10.91 million Tuesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average, after wavering slightly into minus territory at the start, ended the day with a gain of 4.35 at 934.17.

The decision to start "substantive" talks on Vietnam peace at the Paris conference after months of frustrating maneuvers on preliminaries was one positive factor behind the market.

At the same time, traders took heart at the market's ability to limit its decline to a slight, irregular loss in the past couple of days and remain comfortably above the heralded "test" zone of 820 in the Dow industrials.

Caution as to fiscal and monetary policies of the Nixon administration still prevailed, but the conviction seemed to be growing that the new national leadership is unlikely to make any sudden and drastic pronouncements which would upset the business and financial world.

The Associated Press average of 69 stocks rose 1.3 to 354.5 with industrials up 2.9, rails up .2 and utilities up .3.

Of 1,572 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 751 rose and 528 fell. New highs for the year totaled 22 and new lows 14.

Seven of the 15 most-active stocks rose, 6 fell and 2 were unchanged.

INA Corp. was the most-active stock, off 2⅝ at 44 on 247,300 shares. Its volume was boosted by three big blocks totaling 85,300 shares. A reported bid for control of INA by Levin Townsend Computer was withdrawn.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange rose on volume of 6.69 million shares compared with 5.88 million Tuesday. The Exchange's index advanced 25 cents to $32.35.

Fed Cattle Trade Hurt By Fog, Mud

Omaha (AP) —The fed cattle market at Omaha Wednesday was trapped between the fog and the mud as the trade bogged down in slow and selective bargaining.

Fed steers held on to a steady position, but heifers took a loss amounting to as much as 50 cents. The decline in heifers began slowly and accelerated, early trade steady to weak, then weak to 25 lower, and closed 25 to as much as 50 cents off.

The market's action during the first few weeks of the new year has again put the experts behind the proverbial eight ball. In the year-end forecast cards was general agreement that the trade would slack off and turn down after the sustained recovery of late summer and fall. Any slacking thus far has been minimal, and, in fact, has been nearly recovered.

Basically a weather market, the trade, nonetheless has responded to a good demand for quality cattle.

Two loads of choice to prime 1,204-1,217 lb. fed steers drew $29.50 for top dollar.

Several shipments choice to prime 939-975 lb. heifers notched $28.15 to $28.25.

The cow market advanced another 25 to 50 in active trading, backed by a steady to mostly 50-75 higher dressed trade. Practical top beef was $17.75, extra good $18-18.25.

LP-Gas Most Economical for Pig Brooding

Winter farrowing with LP-Gas pig brooders saves enough pigs to pay for itself after only four litters. At a cost of about 14¢ per sow per day, pig brooders let baby animals devote their energy to fast, early growth.

Fewer pigs are crushed by the sow, or suffocated by crowding when extra warmth is provided by versatile, economical LP-Gas.

LP-Gas is piped directly to this area by a division of MAPCO — The Mid-America Pipeline System — the underground highway that weather can't block.

Prices Decline In Grain Mart

Chicago (AP) — Wheat futures gave up one cent on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday and other grain and soybean futures closed on a generally weaker tone. Trade was only fair.

All January contracts expired at noon and there was the usual flurry of activity between shorts and longs that accompanies liquidation of holdings.

At the close, wheat was unchanged to 1 cent a bushel lower, March 1.33⅜; corn was ⅜ to ½ lower, March 1.16⅞; oats were unchanged to ½ higher, March 72¾; rye was unchanged to ½ lower, March 1.21 rye was unchanged to ½ lower, March 1.21 and soybeans were ¾ lower to ⅝ higher, January 2.59¾.
